Traffic Toll Decline Over The Nation

Rate of Deaths Slacken Below Year's Average

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's Thanksgiving weekend traffic death rate slackened today after Thursday's heavy highway mortality. Since 6 p.m. (local time), Wednesday, the traffic toll reached 207.

With the frequency of fatalities far less than on Thanksgiving Day, the rate of deaths slid down the scale to less than for the first nine months of this year when it averaged 126 a day.

Traffic experts said that unpleasant driving weather over much of the North and absence of Thursday's pressure to keep Thanksgiving dinner appointments probably figured in the lull. Also, today had the usual characteristics of workday occupation for perhaps a majority of Americans.

With only about half of the four-day holiday weekend over, it was too early to tell whether the final toll for the 102-hour period would exceed last year's 543, a record since the annual count was started in 1958.

Troops Pursue Rebels

Congo Snipers Are Still Active

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Snipers' bullets still whistled through Stanleyville today as government troops pushed across the Congo River after the main rebel force.

"Stanleyville is under control, but all resistance has not been eliminated," said an American Embassy spokesman.

"The city is virtually deserted. The Congolese have fled to the bush. But snipers are still active and you can easily get a bullet through your head."

Since the U.S.-Belgian airborne operation began Tuesday, at least 59 foreigners including three Americans have been slain by the Peking-backed rebels. The paratroopers rescued about 1,600 white hostages in Stanleyville and Paulis.

In Paulis, which was seized Thursday by Belgian paratroopers, about 100 whites awaited evacuation on U.S. C130s. At least 170 foreigners were brought here from Paulis Thursday.

Belgian paratroopers were scouring an 18-mile radius around Paulis for other foreigners.

The U.S. spokesman said the evacuation of refugees from Stanleyville has been completed. The American planes brought a total of 1,070 refugees from Stanleyville and Paulis. Congolese and other aircraft have airlifted hundreds of others from the rebel zone.

The embassy said five Americans remained in rebel-controlled areas. They are Miss A. Chansler, who is believed to be about 18 miles from Paulis in the village of Egbita; W. McChesney, last reported in Wamba, and Mrs. F. J. Cunningham and her two children in Titule. All are connected with the Heart of Africa Mission of Fort Washington, Pa.

Santa to Have Branch Postal Office In City

Letters to Santa this year will get extra special service, for there will be a branch Santa Post Office in Sedalia located on the Court House lawn where youngsters may drop in their letters and the old fellow will have them quick as a wink.

The Santa Post Office for the children of the Sedalia area will be open starting Monday, Dec. 7, through Dec. 19, and Santa will be there himself Monday through Friday those two weeks from 6:30 to 8:30 each evening. On Saturdays he will be there from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., where the youngsters will be able to see him and talk to him as well as put their letters in the mail box. All letters are to be addressed to "Santa's Post Office, North Pole, Sedalia Branch, Sedalia, Mo., 65301."

The Santa Post Office will be colorful and unique, designed by Postmaster Maurice Hogan, and is now being made by and through the courtesy of Home Building Corp. The branch post office is being sponsored by the Downtown Sedalia Retail Merchants Association.

More Modern Equipment, 75 New Agents, Clerks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Secret Service will expand its machinery for presidential protection significantly in the next few months, adding 75 agents, clerks and technical personnel as the first step.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said "the basic emphasis will be on more effective advance and preventive work by the service in connection with presidential travel, as well as the use of more sophisticated equipment."

The Secret Service is under the Treasury Department.

In announcing the plans today, Dillon said the hiring of 75 additional persons would cost approximately $650,000.

The Secret Service has not made public its exact number of agents but the present total is believed about 400.

There already has been some increase in the Secret Service since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Dillon's statement said the program of further expansion has the approval of the President's Committee on the Warren Report.

Shortly after the investigating commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren issued its report on the assassination, President Johnson appointed the committee of Cabinet officers to study presidential protection.

The Warren Commission criticized both the Secret Service and the FBI with particular emphasis on the failure to spot Lee Harvey Oswald as a threat to the President before Kennedy's fateful trip to Dallas.

Dillon said the full program to strengthen the Secret Service will take up to 20 months.

Mariner Mars Shot Delayed

No New Date Set After Technical Problems Arise

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

—Spacecraft communication problems today forced postponement of an attempt to launch Mariner 4 to Mars to take pictures and probe scientific secrets.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration described the trouble as an apparent temporary drop in signal strength in the spacecraft receiving system. A statement said it appeared to be associated with ground support equipment rather than with the payload.

The launching was rescheduled Saturday in a period between 9:22 a.m. and 12:32 p.m. EST.

The launch crew had only a 3-hour, 13-minute favorable period ending at 12:41 p.m. EST in which to fire the Atlas-Agena rocket to achieve the desired trajectory. When the trouble could not be corrected in time, the shot was called off for the day.

The rocket is to propel Mariner 4 across 326 million miles of space for a brief encounter with the red planet next July 15th.

If successful, the unmanned craft will skim within 8,600 miles of Mars and radio to earth the first close-up information ever obtained from the planet. Many astronomers believe that a basic form of life such as vegetation exists there.

Mariner 4 will not be able to detect life. Its main purpose is to collect data that engineers need for designing life-seeking spacecraft that the United States hopes to land on Mars in 1969.

Project scientists hope that Mariner 4 will succeed where Mariner 3 failed an identical assignment Nov. 5.

Mariner 3 fizzled when its glass shroud collapsed within five minutes after launching. The shroud was unable to drop off and imprisoned the spacecraft, preventing it from unfolding its power-gathering solar panels and from achieving sufficient speed for the Mars trip.

Mariner 3 now is in lifeless orbit about the sun.

Four Persons Die In State Road Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least four persons have died on Missouri streets and highways since the Thanksgiving Day holiday began Wednesday night.

Mrs. Madeline Neville, 47, of Kansas City died early today in a station wagon that hit an underpass pillar on Truman Road at Monroe in Kansas City. Police said the fatal injury apparently was caused by a car battery that hit her in the head. The battery and other car parts were being hauled in the rear section of the vehicle.

Mrs. Nada Smith, 55, of Golden City, Mo., died Thursday in a two-car crash on U. S. 71 five miles north of Jasper. The highway patrol said the car driven by Mrs. Smith's husband came off M126 into the path of a car driven by Everett Arnold, 41, of Nevada, Mo. Three passengers in Arnold's car were injured. The drivers were not hurt.

The other two Missouri fatalities occurred Wednesday night.

Viet Strategy Appraisal Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor started today an intensive reappraisal of U.S. strategy in anti-Communist war in Viet Nam. The study may lead to a decision by President Johnson to broaden the war.

Taylor met with Rusk early this morning, beginning a schedule of talks to be climaxed by White House sessions with President Johnson and other decision makers next week.

The administration appeared to be moving reluctantly toward a cautious expansion of the conflict beyond South Viet Nam in the hope of improving prospects for a peaceful settlement.

Johnson and other top administration officials are reported to have divided feelings about Viet Nam strategy between sticking to confining the war almost entirely to South Viet Nam, and making some strikes to the north.

Taylor, who returned to Washington Thursday, is known to believe that the time for new decisions is at hand. Furthermore he sees some advantages in authorizing and promptly undertaking air strikes either against Communist supply lines from North Viet Nam to South Viet Nam through the neighboring kingdom of Laos, or against Communist concentration points for men and supplies in the north.

Taylor recently declared that the outcome of the conflict is now "very much in doubt."

But he said he thought attacks on targets in Red-held territory would probably make the Chinese and North Vietnamese Communist leadership realize that the conquest it seeks in the south will become too expensive because of impending damage in the north.

The ambassador is reported to believe that such attacks might thus compel the Hanoi regime to reconsider its policies and enter into negotiations on terms more favorable to South Viet Nam than are now considered possible.

Another benefit Taylor is believed to see in strikes to the north is that they might have a heartening effect upon military and anti-Communist elements in the south.

Government instability has been for months one of the most serious problems in South Viet Nam. Though Taylor praised the "courage and determination" of the new civilian premier, Tran Van Huong, authorities here say the situation will get increasingly desperate unless the new regime can demonstrate it can command and enlist support from such political powerful groups as students and Buddhists. Against these benefits of a possible escalation, or step-up of the war, the President and his advisers must weigh the possibility that such moves may provoke responses from North Viet Nam's regular military forces and even from those of Communist China.

1963 Worst Year, UN Report Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Radioactive fallout in 1963 from nuclear explosions exceeded that of any previous year, the U.N. Scientific Committee on Atomic Radiation said today.

The committee's 1964 report said long-lived fallout in 1962 was three times that of 1960-61. With the ending of atmospheric and underwater testing in December 1963, descending fallout for 1964 was expected to drop to two-thirds of that in 1963, the report said.

Short-lived fission products decayed to negligible levels during 1963 so no further dose will come from the stratosphere after 1964, the report added.

A scientific source close to the committee said the committee had reached no conclusions concerning underground testing.

He said there was no published evidence of water contamination from underground tests. As for venting — the leaking of radiation into the air — gases formed by underground explosions could carry comparatively heavy amounts of contamination, the source said.

The committee said it was not yet possible to assess how nuclear radiation already disseminated by testing, would affect the spread of cancerous malignancies among humans, if at all. It said information so far available on this was unreliable.

Garbage Pickups 'Catch-up' Attempt
Time will tell whether or not the garbage pickups missed in Sedalia Thursday will be made before the next regular pickup date, according to Willard Morris, sanitary officer.

Morris told The Democrat-Capital Friday that his department, on all days following the scheduled holidays, completes the regular pickup for that day, then doubles back, working until dark on the route missed during the holiday.

"Sometimes we are able to pick up all along the skipped route before the next scheduled pickup. Sometimes we don't make it. It all depends on the time we have after the regular pickup is made," Morris said.

Morris explained that the charge is still $1 per month for residences, even though the department makes only three pickups per month. On the other hand, he explained, during the summer months, the residences get eight or ten pickups for the $1 fee.

Freighter Sliced In Two By Liner

Collision At Sea Claims 19

NEW YORK (AP) — Nineteen crewmen of a Norwegian tanker are dead or missing from a Thanksgiving Day tragedy in which their vessel was sliced in two by an Israeli luxury liner heading out on a carefree Caribbean cruise.

The collision occurred 18 miles off the New Jersey Coast shortly after 2 a.m. Thursday in dense fog.

The stern quarter of the tanker sank in the pall of darkness and fog. Water poured into the liner's bow compartments, which were sealed off.

An air-sea rescue operation was quickly put in motion.

Clad variously in nightdress or ballroom attire, many of the cruise liner's 616 passengers raced to decks to watch through the mist.

Eventually, 24 of the tanker's 43-member crew were snatched from the seas, from swamped lifeboats and from the barely floating forward section of the vessel. Among them were a stewardess — the lone woman aboard — and the tanker's captain.

Some of the men saved from the sea were only partially clad. They were oil-smeared, blue with cold and in some cases insensible from shock.

As time wore on through a gray dawn, the Atlantic yielded 13 bodies. A massive daylong search of the area finally was called off at sundown without any trace of six men still missing.

The vessels involved were the $20-million liner Shalom, pride of the Israeli merchant fleet and its seven-months-old flagship, and the 12,723-ton Norwegian tanker Stolt Dagali.

The 629-foot-long, 25,320-ton Shalom had sailed from New York at 11:15 the night before, after a round of gay farewell parties on what was to have been a leisurely 10-day cruise to the West Indies.

Aboard the sparkling white ship were 1,076 persons. They included crew members and a host of entertainers. No one suffered an injury of any consequence, it was reported.

The tanker, whose home port is Oslo, was inbound for Newark, N.J., on a voyage from Philadelphia. Her tanks were 80 per cent filled with a cargo of vegetable oil.

As the two plowed through the foggy murk on what was to be a collision course, neither apparently had any impending sense of danger even though both were equipped with radar.

Their captains later declined to comment on circumstances preceding the collision.

Suddenly the rending crash occurred, with the Shalom's bow slicing into the tanker.

Some of the tanker's crew were flung from their bunks into the icy ocean. They found themselves fighting for life without an instant's notion of what had happened.

Hoyt's Spirit Undaunted

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Consul Michael Hoyt, for three months a prisoner of Congolese rebels at Stanleyville, says he "very definitely" would be willing to return to the Congo.

Hoyt and four other members of the U.S. Consulate staff in Stanleyville were rescued earlier this week as part of a U.S.-Belgian paratroop operation that plucked hundreds of whites from the midst of rebels who were preparing to execute them.

The five arrived in Washington Thursday after a flight by military transport. They were greeted by Wayne Fredericks, deputy assistant secretary of state, and a small crowd of well-wishers.

Hoyt said the Congo insurgents first put him under house arrest at the U.S. Consulate but later confined him in a prison with no bed and poor sanitation.

When word came to the rebels that land forces of the central Congolese government were approaching Stanleyville, Hoyt said, they prepared to execute the whites they were holding as hostages.

"Certainly we had many doubts that we would get home alive," he said, adding that the swiftness of the joint rescue operation saved him and most of the other hostages.

Others of the hostages, including at least two Americans, were killed as the rebels herded the hostages into Stanleyville's Lumumba Square and started firing at them.

Special Guest To Visit Local Kingdom Hall

C. E. White, a special traveling minister and a representative of the Watchtower Society, will be in Sedalia the week of Dec. 1-6.

He and his wife will assist and instruct the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses in the several different features of the house-to-house ministry, throughout the week.

Kingdom Hall will be the center of activity, as several talks by White are scheduled for the week. Saturday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. a special talk will be given, during the evening there will be a discussion on "New Things Learned."

Sunday, Dec. 6, at 3 p.m. he will give a public talk entitled, "Do All Religions Lead to Eternal Life?"

Rev. Sherman Bridgman

Rev. Bridgman To Illinois Missions Post

The Rev. Sherman D. Bridgman, 1000 South Missouri, has tendered his resignation as superintendent of missions of the Harmony Baptist Association to the Association executive board.

Bridgman has accepted a call to serve as superintendent of city missions in East St. Louis, Ill., and will begin his new work on Dec. 1.

Bridgman began his work here in January 1960 coming from the pastorate of the Valley Park Mission of the Kirkwood Baptist Church in St. Louis. Bridgman received his B.D. Degree from the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex.

He had previously been graduated from the Southern Baptist College at Walnut Ridge, Ark., and the East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, Tex.

During the five years of Bridgman's service in Harmony Association which comprises the Baptist churches and missions in Pettis County, he has led the churches in a program of growth and progress in keeping with the Southern Baptist goals and procedures.

Bridgman was active in the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers' Association and in 1961 served as chairman of a county-wide religious survey.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridgman are members of the First Sedalia Church, where Mrs. Bridgman has served as a SS teacher, TU worker and in WMU. She has also served as publicity chairman and secretary of the Association WMU, as well as Association secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridgman and their children, Donna, 7, and David, 4, will leave Monday for their new home at 1154 Jones Drive, Cahokia, Ill.

OBITUARIES

Thomas J. Allen (Winterset, Ia.)

Thomas Jefferson Allen, 57, died at his home in Winterset, Ia., Thursday.

He was born in Benton County, Mo., near Lake View Heights, Sept. 7, 1907, son of Thomas and Anna Allen.

Surviving are: his wife, Easter Mae Allen, Winterset, Ia.; two sons, Samuel, Logan, Ia., and Tommy, Winterset, Ia.; two daughters, Mrs. Irene Whittle, Woodbine, Ia., and Mrs. Geraldine Monroe, Blue Springs, Mo.; one brother, Johnny, Cole Camp; and two sisters, Mrs. Lola Knox and Mrs. Josie Yount, both of Cole Camp. Also four step-children, seven grandchildren and 12 step-grandchildren survive.

He had formerly lived in the Lake View Heights area.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Scrivner-Stevenson Funeral Home, Stover, with the Rev. Eugene Edwards officiating.

Burial will be in Brushy Cemetery.

Whitmire Infant (Fort Smith, Ark.)

James Todd Whitmire, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Whitmire, Fort Smith, Ark., died at 8 a.m. Thursday at Sparks Memorial Hospital, Fort Smith, of a heart defect he had suffered from birth.

Surviving are his parents, 7901 Holly, Fort Smith, Ark.; and several distant relatives in Sedalia.

Funeral services were at 3 p.m. Friday at Fentress Funeral Home in Fort Smith. Burial was in a Fort Smith cemetery.

Broadway Lanes Event Adds $600 To Center Fund

Broadway Lanes bowling profits for the day, given to the Children's Therapy Center for the 4th consecutive year, totaled more than $600. Added to the recent bond drive, 1965 funds were boosted to more than $8,400. Proceeds from two city teams are to be added to the total, as are proceeds from bond packets, still to be returned.

Whispering Oaks had the day's high game. Junior leagues bowled all morning and trophies were given in that division.

The challenge match winners were: Lawyers over Doctors; Policemen over Firemen; Optimists over Jaycees; Palmer Tool and Supply over Jaycees. Approximately 15 teams participated.

Master of ceremonies was Charles Thompson, Broadway Lanes owner. J. D. Walker is therapy center director.

Postmaster Exam Applications Call For Houstonia Job

An examination for Postmaster at Houstonia, Mo., at $5,735 a year, will be open for acceptance of applications until Dec. 22, the Civil Service Commission announced today.

Competitors for the postmaster vacancy must have at least one year of experience (education above high school level may be substituted for six months of experience) showing that they have the ability to maintain simple records of accounts or that it has given them a knowledge of postal procedures.

Competitors must also show that they are of good reputation and that they can meet and deal with the public agreeably and effectively.

Complete information about the examination requirements and instructions for filing applications may be obtained at the post office for which this examination is being announced. Application forms must be filed with the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C., 20415, and must be received or postmarked not later than the closing date.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Hays-Painter Chapel, Ottumville.

George E. Hewitt

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Methodist Church in Concordia, for George Everett Hewitt, Concordia, who died Thursday afternoon, Nov. 19, following a long illness. The Rev. J. Elmer Brunk officiated.

Mr. Hewitt was born Sept. 27, 1894, near Cross Timbers, Mo., son of the late Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Hewitt. As a young boy he and his family moved to Elmwood, Mo. He attended schools at Elmwood and Blackburn. The family moved to Concordia in 1913.

He was a veteran of World War I, after which he was affiliated with his father's veterinary laboratory. He was a member of the Methodist Church and of the American Legion Lohman-Meyer Post No. 258.

Survivors include: his wife, Mrs. Mabel I. Hewitt, of the home; one son, Albert M. Hewitt, Richmond; two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Markham, Concordia, and Mrs. Mildred Haynes, Agua Dulce, Tex.; one grandson and three great grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Irvin Petering, Ben Kueck, Otto Marth, Julius Holsten, Ernest Stuenkel and William Klingenberg.

Burial was in the Methodist Cemetery.

John Henry Curtis

Funeral services for John Henry Curtis, 69, Route 1, LaMonte, who died at Bothwell Hospital Wednesday night, will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Gary Taylor, pastor of the Dresden Baptist Church, will officiate.

Pallbearers will be Delmar Fisher, Eddie Minor, Tom Breashears, Wallace Ward, Don Curry and V. A. Hieronymus.

Burial was in the Longwood Cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Traffic

The latest of the multiple-death accidents were reported in Kansas and Iowa. A car rammed under a parked truck on the Kansas Turnpike near Wellington, Kan., Thursday night, killing Joan Judd, 24, of Blackwell, Okla., and three of her young children.

Two cars loaded with teenagers from Fort Dodge, Iowa, returning from a wedding reception crashed in separate accidents. Three boys were killed in one accident and in the second mishap one boy was killed.

Congo Still Unhealthy For Whites

STANLEYVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Stanleyville is a city of desolation, of bloodstains and of unburied corpses rotting in the tropic sun.

Until Belgian paratroopers ended rebel rule Tuesday, Stanleyville was the capital of the Peking-backed "Congolese People's Republic." The city had 300,000 inhabitants, including more than 1,000 whites.

At least 38 of the whites are now believed to have been slaughtered by the rebels in a last-minute bloodbath before the paratroopers seized the city's center. Two were Americans — Dr. Paul Carlson of Rollings Hills, Calif., a Protestant medical missionary who had been condemned to death by the rebels as a spy, and Phyllis Rine of Cincinnati, Ohio, a Protestant mission worker.

About 300 rebels or rebel supporters are believed to have died in Stanleyville.

It is still not healthy to move around. Rebel snipers are holed up in the top floors of buildings. Except for heavily armed military trucks, the streets are empty. Shop windows are shattered or scarred by bullet holes. Shop doors are open but there is no one behind the counters.

Automobiles are abandoned in the middle of the streets. Many have flat tires, others have open hoods. They have been stripped for spare parts.

The rattle of automatic rifles and machine guns is a constant reminder of the rebel presence. Premier Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries and Belgian paratroopers are trying to flush out the snipers.

Across the 1,000-yard-wide Congo River, the rebels are still masters of a section of Stanleyville. Mercenary pilots in converted T6 training planes blasted the south bank of the river with rockets and machine guns.

Maj. Michael Hoare, 46, commander of the South African mercenaries, dropped one rebel across the river with a rifle shot from his hotel window.

There is plenty of evidence of Chinese Communist influence. I slept Tuesday night in the hotel room of a senior officer of the nonexistent rebel air force. He had a large set of Mao Tse-tung's works.

Articles in the rebel newspaper, "The Martyr," show a strong pro-Chinese influence. Back numbers of the biweekly newsletter give evidence of the rebels' glee at the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev.

Seven Convocation Heads Named To Episcopal Diocese

Police Sgt. Charles Stuart discovered a break-in to the Cook Paint Store, 416 South Ohio, about 10:48 p.m. Thursday night, but investigation revealed only a small loss.

A rear door was broken and a lock pried off to gain entrance, police reported. Proprietors told police 70 cents in change and some postage stamps were taken.

Shortly thereafter police found some masking tape and an out-of-order sign had been placed on a phone booth at Broadway and Lamine. Officers believed the tape and sign came from the Cook store.

Fires In City

A fire in a car seat was brought to firemen's doorstep at 8:10 a.m. Friday when Frank Kemp drove his 1960 Pontiac up to station house No. 2 at 211 South Kentucky.

Firemen doused the fire, which was believed to have started from a cigarette on the seat. Damage was set at $100.

Some burning trash set fire to an outbuilding at the Elmer Herrmann residence, 2207 South Kentucky, at 2:06 p.m. Thursday resulting in $125 damage.

Firemen used one booster line to extinguish the blaze. Damage was set at $100 to the structure and $25 to its contents.

Golden Agers Hold Dinner At Salvation Army

The annual Thanksgiving dinner for the Golden Agers was held Tuesday noon, Nov. 24, at the Salvation Army with 55 persons present.

It was a gay affair with conversation and fellowship maintained throughout the dinner and continuing during the afternoon in the Golden Agers Lounge.

Friday will be the day the Salvation Army Christmas tree will be up and the kettle out for money for Christmas baskets — and the first bell ringers of the Christmas season will be none other than the Golden Agers, who cheated just a little by some of them putting their contributions in the kettle on Thanksgiving Day just in case they didn't get down on Friday. They would really like to be able to turn in the biggest amount of money of any of the bell ringers — and they might just be able to do that.

The first mint probably was established in Lydia near the end of the 8th century B.C. for the coining of electrum, a natural alloy of silver and gold. Silver was coined in the island of Aegina soon afterward. The art of coining was introduced by the Greeks into Italy. Subsequently, the Romans laid the foundation of modern minting.

Ball to Paris Tonight For Allies Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball flies to Paris tonight for talks there and in London with European leaders and U.S. officials on economic and military problems confronting the Atlantic Allies.

Key topics for Ball's conferences are expected to be the financial policies of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and the U.S. plan for a multilateral nuclear force, jointly owned and manned by the various NATO countries.

The undersecretary's trip comes in the wake of a severe British financial crisis revolving about Wilson's attempts to bolster the pound sterling and improve his nation's international payments standing.

And it comes less than one week after Wilson sharply criticized the proposed joint nuclear weapons force in a speech to the House of Commons on Monday.

Despite Wilson's stand, and the continuing opposition to the MLF project by French President Charles de Gaulle, the United States and West Germany — its two chief backers — agreed Thursday that the NATO nuclear fleet can be established.

In a joint communique following talks, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder expressed hope that agreement on the multilateral force "will be reached soon and that as many member nations of the alliance as possible would participate."

Rusk and Schroeder were reported to feel that Wilson's speech may have been delivered partially to placate the left wing of his Labor party and partly to establish a bargaining position when he comes here Dec. 7-8 for talks with U.S. officials including President Johnson.

Don King Tells Jaycee Wives Of Floral Display

Don King of Archias Floral Co. presented a program on the art of flower arranging, corsage making and floral decor Nov. 24 for Sedalia Jaycee Wives at Missouri State Bank. Eighteen members attended.

The December meeting will be a chili supper at Mrs. Tom Miller's home, preceded by Christmas carolling at Sedalia rest homes. Each member is to contribute a pint of chili and a $1 gift for exchange.

Mrs. Clem Darrow reported the club has members eligible for Spokette awards. They will be notified and instructed concerning points necessary for a Spokette award.

State winter board meeting, to be in Sedalia in March, was discussed. A decoration and entertainment committee formed.

Mrs. Stan Gunter, Mrs. Dennis Onweiler and Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied reported on their recent trip to the fall-winter board meeting in Hannibal in November.

Jaycees and wives are to aid the Salvation Army from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Dec. 5 by ringing Christmas bells downtown Sedalia. Mrs. Gunter is chairman for wives.

Each member donated $1 toward a Thanksgiving dinner for a family for Thanksgiving. It was decided money for the Christmas family will be taken from the treasury.

First Round Victory For Viet Premier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Tran Van Huong's declaration of martial law and his obvious intention to crush antigovernment riots with bullets if necessary appeared today to have won the scrappy leader a first-round victory over his militant opponents.

Predicted mass demonstrations failed to materialize Thursday and today. The powerful Buddhist leadership apparently was shying away from a showdown in the streets, at least for the present.

The National Buddhist Institute was closed by barred wire strung up by the Buddhists. Signs proclaimed there would be no demonstrations today.

Armed police broke up a news conference given by Nguyen Xuan Chu, former chairman of the National High Council. He announced the merging of 18 political parties and student groups into a national revolutionary committee pledged to destroy Huong's three-week-old government.

A maze of barbed wire was removed from around the palace of chief of state Phan Khanh Suu. But troops were on the alert to crush any renewal of the demonstrations which were staged daily from Sunday through Wednesday. Huong proclaimed martial law Wednesday night.

The key to Huong's position continued to be the support of the military. It is still smarting over the collapse of military rule in August, when tough action was not taken against rioting mobs until too late.

Huong in a broadcast said the Communist Viet Cong had played a role in the riots and that they were fomented by "groups of irresponsible people (who) have either innocently or deliberately fallen in with Communist plans and incited the most unoccupied and innocent sectors of the population."

Huong said 86 members of the security forces and nearly all policemen were injured in Wednesday's melee. He did not specify casualties among the rioters but these were believed to be at least 30 or 40.

Communist terrorists continued at work in Saigon today. A grenade exploded in the yard of a U.S. aid mission's guest house. No one was hurt. The house is a block from the residence of Deputy U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson.

The Soviet Union meanwhile stepped in with a warning against any U.S. plans to carry the war to North Viet Nam.

In an "authorized" statement published by the Soviet news agency Tass, Moscow said it was ready to provide the Hanoi regime with "necessary assistance" in the event of U.S. armed attacks.

FBI to Step Into Case At Lebanon

LEBANON, Mo. (AP) — The FBI has said it will take custody of a Chicago man arrested near Lebanon Thursday in a kidnap-slaying case.

Ray Weddell Thorburn, 42, of Chicago, admitted in a signed statement that he shot William R. Loomis, 39, Indiana business man, Sheriff Francis Murphy said.

The FBI plans to take Thorburn, also known as Jerry Lee Rogers, to Chicago to face a federal kidnap charge.

Already in custody in Chicago on the same charge is Phillip A. Battaglia, 23, of Chicago, who was arrested there Tuesday.

Loomis' body, shot in the head, was found by deer hunters near Manistique, Mich., Nov. 1.

The FBI quoted Battaglia as saying he and Thorburn tied Loomis up, put him in the trunk of Loomis' car and drove to northern Michigan.

Sheriff Murphy said Thorburn didn't mention Battaglia in his statement Thursday.

"I'm glad it's over. I feel better now," the sheriff quoted Thorburn as saying after signing the statement.

Thorburn stated he had a "hassle" with Loomis, and "I pushed him away and shot him in the head and he fell over dead," the sheriff related.

"Thorburn said Loomis had less than $100 on him," Murphy added.

After the Loomis car broke down in Tennessee, Thorburn's statement continued, he rented a car and drove to California by a northern route, using Loomis' credit cards all the way.

He started back east Sunday, picking up a hitchhiker in California, Thorburn said.

Three Missouri Highway patrolmen stopped Thorburn about 10 miles east of Lebanon. They were Trooper L. D. Long, Sgt. Claude Arnold and Trooper Wayne Murphy.

The officers said Thorburn had a .38 caliber pistol.

A man with him, described as the hitchhiker, gave the name of Thurman Justice, 19, of Fenton, Mich. Officers said Justice had a switchblade knife, but he denied any knowledge of the Michigan case. Thorburn also said Justice knew nothing about it.

Missionary Was Dedicated To Saving of Souls

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — "He was worried about their souls, not their standard of living," C. M. Tucker said of his brother who was killed by rebels in the Congo.

Tucker told Thursday about the dedication of his brother to missionary service in Africa. "It was just his life, that's all. He couldn't wait to get back."

The brother, Rev. J.W. Tucker 45, was beaten to death along with at least 16 other whites at Dominican Mission at Paulis. Survivors said the rebels "used clubs and bottles against their victims who had their hands tied behind them."

The Rev. Tucker died after 45 minutes of such a beating, survivors said. He spent a year in Arkansas on a furlough which ended last August. He was an assembly of God missionary. The church council is located at Springfield, Mo.

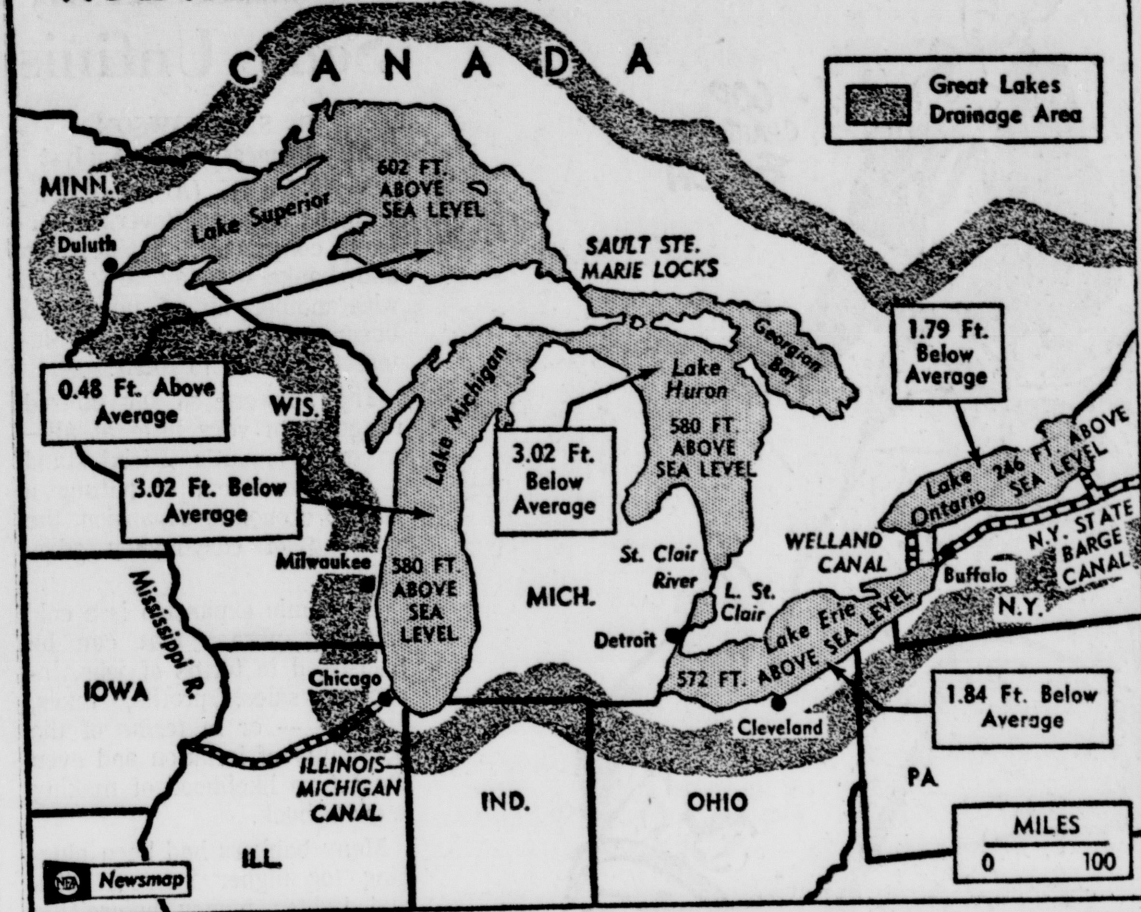

His wife and three children were reported safe in Paulis.

At Portland, Ore., a brother-in-law of the missionary, the Rev. Donald Pierce, told the Oregon Journal violence in the Congo is communist-inspired. He was a missionary in the Congo for 11 years and returned with his wife and five children last July. He said he had no plans to return.

WANTED: SNOW AND RAIN—APLENTY

Widespread areas of the country are still suffering from the effects of prolonged drought, despite some recent rain and snow. Subnormal water levels in the Great Lakes, as seen on map above, symbolize the critical drought conditions. Only Lake Superior is above average, and that by less than six inches. Heavy precipitation anticipated during the next six months is expected to raise the levels, but not necessarily up to average. Figures are by U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Funeral Rites For Victim Of Severe Beating

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Mo. (AP) — Funeral services were to be held today for Wilfred Gerald Brown, 55, former St. Louis civil engineer, whose beaten and trussed-up body was found in his Ozark mountain home Wednesday.

Officials said an autopsy conducted Thursday, showed Brown died about Nov. 19 from the effects of two heavy blows, exhaustion and shock.

He had been hit on the head and chest with a blunt instrument. He died about six hours after eating his last meal, probably supper the night of Nov. 18, the autopsy disclosed.

F. B. Greene, Shannon County prosecutor, said officers were looking for four youths Brown had said visited him several weeks ago.

After they left, Brown told the highway patrol, he missed $550 and three or four guns from his weapons collection.

Missing from the home when his body was discovered were his money, his usual stock of whisky and guns valued at $2,000.

The 15-room home is in an isolated area at the end of a mountain road. Brown built the place about 1946 for his wife and their eight children, and he had lived there alone since the death of his wife three months ago.

File Assault Charge Against Young Father

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A father, who said he accidentally stabbed his 18-month-old son with a kitchen fork, was charged in a warrant Thursday with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Police said George Gill, 26, told them he stabbed the boy during a struggle with his estranged wife, Earline, 25. He later was arrested after fleeing the house with the boy.

The baby suffered abrasions of the back and a puncture wound of the right foot. He was taken to City Hospital, but was not seriously injured.

Police said Mrs. Gill told them Gill visited her Wednesday night, they argued, he threw a fork at her and then threatened to harm the child. She said her husband stabbed the child twice in the back and once in the foot, police said.

Mother, 3 Children Killed In Accident

WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP) — A young mother and three of her children were killed Thursday night when their car rammed under a parked truck on the Kansas Turnpike about six miles south of Wellington.

The turnpike patrol identified the victims as Mrs. Joan Judd, 24, of Blackwell, Okla., an 18-month-old daughter, Terna Jo, and her sons, Glen Dale, 3, and Vern Raymond, 7.

Another son, Cera Judd, 5, was hospitalized in Wellington. He was reported in fair condition.

The husband and father was at the home in Blackwell when the accident occurred, the patrol said. He left for Wellington when notified of the tragedy.

Blast Senatorial Charges At Television As Blown Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A row sparked by senatorial charges that crime and violence on television help lead to juvenile delinquency apparently is coming to a head.

Senators have started talking of possible new laws to force action if the television industry doesn't "clean its own house," as they put it.

The industry, contending the senatorial accusations are exaggerated and in some cases unwarranted, has served notice it will fight any move toward federal censorship of programs.

The combatants are the Senate subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency and the National Association of Broadcasters, representing the bulk of the industry.

The subcommittee has cited a number of crimes including killings, extortion, robbery and gang violence by youngsters who allegedly got the idea from television programs.

The subcommittee's chairman, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., has ordered a massive project to monitor every program aired in the Washington area, to get evidence for subsequent public hearings.

No date has been announced for the hearings, but they are expected to get under way well before spring.

NAB's Code Review Board, an organization of nine broadcasters administering its Code of Fair Practices, has scheduled meetings here Dec. 9-10. The subcommittee's Oct. 27 report to the Senate contended that televised programs excessively featuring crime, violence and brutality are a proved factor in juvenile delinquency although not the only one.

"The patience of Congress, though considerable, is not endless," the report said in warning.

Howard H. Bell, NAB code director, told a reporter by telephone from New York City the subcommittee report made a number of unwarranted allegations, including one that many broadcasters seem to violate the code with impunity.

The subcommittee praised the code's content but said it was poorly enforced and that many violators continued to display the NAB "seal of fair practice" in advertising which supposedly attests compliance with the code.

Bell denied that enforcement of the code is lax. He said many radio and television stations have lost their right to display the seal, and that the industry is taking steps to sharpen the sting.

Bell said the industry does not claim it is perfect, but that it can and does police itself effectively, strives to improve its standards, and will resist any government regulation of the content of its programs.

He said any such legislation would violate constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and of the press.

"I may be stubborn—but there's a best way to make whiskey. I won't make it any other way!"

—Cloud L. Gray, Sr. Proprietor, McCormick Distilling Company

B.Y.M.: "But you've got competition!"

GRAY: "Nonsense. Distilling reached the peak of perfection over 100 years ago. New-fangled methods just make more whiskey—not better whiskey!"

B.Y.M.: "And what's so great about the old way?"

GRAY: "Well, they started with pure limestone spring water—no chemical substitutes. Distilled by batch, in a pot still—not a patent still. And they used fermenters of pure cypress wood—with charred white-oak barrels for aging."

B.Y.M.: "And today?"

GRAY: "McCormick sticks to the old ways—the best ways. Might as well be 105 years ago."

B.Y.M.: "But your limit is 25 barrels a day. That won't supply..."

GRAY: "Sorry, son. Just can't hurry good whiskey. You leave mass production to the auto people. And sip some McCormick."

B.Y.M.: "I already know it's good. No bite. Remarkable taste. But you can't make whiskey this good and survive!"

GRAY: "Want to bet?"

Will Wilson Modernize The Church?

LONDON (AP) — Will Britain's new prime minister seek to modernize the Church of England?

Some of the clergy think he will. They contend an unreformed Church would stand out like a sore thumb in the kind of Britain he is aiming at.

Although a Congregationalist himself, Harold Wilson by his office now is largely responsible for ecclesiastical appointments in the Church of England, the state established church. Bishops, cathedral deans, even some canons and lesser clergy are appointed by the monarch on Wilson's nomination. He could change the look of things by picking young men to the now aging bench of bishops.

There are 43 diocesan and 40 suffragan bishops in the Church of England today. The oldest is the 74-year-old Bishop of Sodor and Man; the youngest the 49-year-old Bishop of Southwell. Their average age is around 60. There is no fixed retiring age.

To be a bishop in the Church of England you must be "a learned presbyter" — priest — at least 30 years old, born in lawful wedlock, and of good life and behavior.

You will be addressed as right reverend and have the legal style of "my lord bishop." You may marry but, if you do, your wife will have no title or precedence at public functions. In rank you will be above a baron and below a viscount, marquess, earl or duke.

The two archbishops — Canterbury and York — sit with 24 of the other bishops in the House of Lords as spiritual peers. The bishops of London, Durham and Winchester sit there by right of their sees; the others by seniority of their consecration to the episcopacy.

It may fall to Wilson to appoint successors in several sees. He will get plenty of advice from the Archbishop of Canterbury downward whenever a vacancy occurs. But he doesn't have to follow it.

Harold Wilson, the man who married a Congregationalist minister's daughter, may yet give the establishment that shake-up part of it seems to wish.

Derailment Wreckage Cleared In Illinois

NEW ATHENS, Ill. (AP) — Wreckage of a 46-car derailment of a freight train was cleared Thursday evening one mile west of New Athens, and regular rail traffic resumed.

No injuries were reported in the Wednesday night derailment of the Illinois Central's 96-car Blufford, Ill., special, loaded with grain.

Trains were rerouted over the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio line.

Fly Rare Blood To Save Woman From California

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A rare type of blood flown here from Minnesota was credited with saving the life of a woman who was bleeding to death.

An additional blood of the same type was flown from Kansas to help the woman, if needed.

Teamwork by doctors, technicians and three blood donors was credited with saving life of Mrs. Louise Mitchell, 40, of Long Beach. Doctors said she was bleeding to death when she entered Lakewood General Hospital Tuesday night. The internal bleeding was due to a recent operation, doctors said.

After hours of work to determine her rare blood type, doctors sent out a call for blood with O-positive cellano negative and little-c factors.

The rare blood processing center in Milwaukee, Wis., located two unidentified donors in Minneapolis. Western Air Lines flew the blood here. The transfusion was made Wednesday night.

The Los Angeles Red Cross located another donor through the rare blood exchange. The blood center of the Red Cross at Wichita, Kan., received word that Adin Holdeman of Hesston, Kan., was listed as having the type of blood needed.

Holdeman was located at Fre-

Home: Place Twig Is Bent

Government figures recently announced disclosure that teen-agers in this country are committing suicide at the rate of two a day. And the rate is increasing.

Add this to the alarming nationwide epidemic of teen-age crimes and acts of violence and we have a problem and a challenge no responsible parent can ignore.

Why should so many youngsters seek self-destruction at the very threshold of life in an era when tomorrow is more exciting than today?

Why should so many commit acts of frightening rowdiness, brutality, vandalism and passion in a nation that is prosperous, civilized and progressive?

Why should such dreadful confusion, despair and insecurity overwhelm these young people in the face of the greatest emphasis that has ever been placed on child care, psychology, psychiatry, education and welfare?

Perhaps the logical place to begin looking for the answers is in the home. In the schools and churches, too, of course. But primarily in the home and the family circle.

Suppose in every home parents were to take a self-imposed test:

- Are we setting a parental example we are proud to have our children follow?

- Are we spending enough time with our children to make sure we understand each other?

- Do we know where our children are, who their companions may be, and what they're doing or likely to be doing?

- Do our children have the advantage of discipline that is fair but firm? Do we offer them the protection and security of basic ground rules to which they can subscribe with understanding and dignity?

- Do we take pains in this house to visit with each other—to share our news and views, our little triumphs and our problems?

- Finally, do we have in our family spiritual values that are important respected and lived by?

If enough parents can pass that test, the teen-age problem is on the way to solution.

If they can't, youthful tragedy and waywardness are sure to flourish.

The World Today

American Breed of Dr. Carlsons

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is a breed of American doctors who gather the world's poorest humanity in their hands and who leave their mark on the minds of men from the mountains of Southeast Asia to the steaming forests of Africa and South America.

And, save for the moments when they dramatically die, the Tom Dooleys and the Paul Carlsons labor largely unknown and unacclaimed by their fellow Americans.

One such dramatic moment came this week in a place called Lumumba Square in a country called the Congo. It was a strange place to die for a man from a more common place called Rolling Hills, Calif.

But Dr. Paul Carlson — a man with something to give — had chosen to be there because he felt he was needed there.

So it is for a growing number of American doctors who forsake convenient American living and rewarding medical practice at home to serve for nearly nothing in the wildernesses of the world.

There are more than 2,000 American doctors at work today — strange transplants into the frustrations of poverty, among diseases they never see at home, in places where suspicion is the rule and trust must be won, and where the most important mail from home might be a package of surplus drug samples.

Like Carlson, they may work in a one-man, cinder-block hospital in a jungle clearing, they may find their day beginning before dawn and ending beyond midnight, they may find the simplest needs for clean water and trained help hard to come by. They certainly find no shortage of patients.

For Carlson — sole doctor for 100,000 Africans — the need was clear when he visited the Congo in 1961. He closed up practice in California, trained in Britain and went to answer that need. He almost certainly felt that even his hardest efforts were only a drop in the bucket of African poverty.

So it is for some 700 Protestant and some 50 Catholic medical missionaries who try to cope with the brutal facts of malnutrition and disease, who see a woman bear six children knowing perhaps only one will survive to adolescence with normal mental capacity.

And so it is for the 150 doctors who serve under Care-Medico programs and the 35 to 40 who put in intensive tours for the medical ship Hope.

Others work for the Peace Corps and other U.S. government agencies and the emphasis is often on training native talent to take over when the Americans go home.

The American Medical Association says it receives hundreds of queries from doctors asking how they can help overseas. It also has a long list of requests for medical help from Malaysia to Nigeria.

To help the American doctor abroad, some 35 groups collect old medical journals and drug samples from doctors to send to missionaries.

What Carlson saw in Africa were the commonplace, awful contagions of yaws and leprosy, and epidemics of infectious disease that merely trouble affluent Americans but kill the undernourished of other continents.

To the Africans, men like Carlson bring more than hope. They bring life.

To Americans, the way Carlson lived and served should likely be more important than the way he died, caught in an unfortunate tide of political distress. To Carlson's father, perhaps it was most simple of all:

"I'm not as much proud as humble," he said. "What he's supposed to die for — this does not make me proud — it makes me humble."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

LBJ Starts Backslapping Opponents

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—When President Johnson invited Senators Dick Russell and Herman Talmadge of Georgia down to the LBJ ranch to shoot deer, the political antennae of 98 other senators began to vibrate.

The Republicans were amused, the Democrats irked. But both got the signal, namely — Lyndon is going to kick his friends in the shins and reward his enemies.

Most senators remembered what happened during the latter days of the 1962 Congress when Sen. George Smathers of Florida, an usher at the Kennedy wedding and, prideful of his close friendship with the late president, held Congress in session one whole extra week.

Smathers had passed a tax bill permitting professional men to take certain tax deductions in order to accumulate a retirement nest egg. The Treasury and President Kennedy fought this as taxation favoring one class, and Kennedy planned to issue a pocket veto after Congress adjourned.

Whereupon his old pal announced that he would keep Congress in session for an extra week in order to prevent any pocket veto. And he did.

Kennedy, anxious to get rid of Congress, had to wait around Washington an extra week, thanks to the bulldozing tactics of the dapper Floridian who had boasted he was such a friend.

After that, Democratic senators expected a break between Kennedy and Smathers, and were flabbergasted to note sometime later that Smathers was the only senator selected to cruise down the river with the Kennedy family on JFK's birthday.

Opposition Pays

A standard rule of politics is that you reward your friends, rebuff your enemies. And the Smathers incident marked the beginning of real Senate rebellion against JFK. Other senators figured that the more they bucked the president, as did Smathers, the more the president would appease.

That's why the same senators watched with such interest when Johnson appeared the two Georgia pals who didn't lift a finger for him during the recent election. Dick Russell flew off to Europe to inspect military bases during the most crucial days of the campaign. Sen. Talmadge did accompany Johnson during his visits to Georgia, but made no campaign speeches for him.

If either Georgia senator had made a speech or two for Johnson, LBJ would have carried Georgia. Instead, it went Republican for the first time in 100 years.

Yet, the president even included Dick Russell's nephew, Judge Robert Russell, in the invitation to hunt deer and bask in the sunshine of Johnson hospitality.

Some forty Democratic senators got out and campaigned for Johnson this fall. Some spent weeks of time and their own money plugging for him in difficult states. Not one was invited to the LBJ ranch.

They got the signal. You can expect a rash of opposition to Johnson from Democrats in the next Senate—beginning almost immediately—regarding the danger of sucking us into an Asiatic war in Viet Nam.

Navy in Liquor Business

The Washington Navy Yard has been nursing grandiose plans to go into the liquor business. In contrast to the days when the late Josephus Daniels, secretary of the Navy under Wilson, banned liquor from officers' messes, the Navy yard was planning to open a package liquor store to sell cut-rate liquor to officers.

The Navy yard already has an officers' club which sells liquor by the drink, and is planning to build a petty officers' club with the same liquor privileges.

However, plans for the package liquor store have been abruptly stopped, after the Defense Department got wind that this column was investigating.

Capt. Herbert Rommel, commander of the Navy yard, had admitted to Jack Anderson that he was planning to open the package store and that he might approve another two stores for petty officers and enlisted men.

But after Anderson checked the Defense Department, it looked into the need for Navy liquor stores. It found that within a radius of one mile there were 30 package stores, with six less than three minutes' walk from the Navy yard's entrance.

Result: The Navy yard can keep its clubs, which can continue serving drinks to members over 21. But the yard will have to stay out of the package liquor business.

Headlines and Footnotes

J. William Middendorf II, the Republican treasurer, is planning a new fund-raising drive early next year. He makes no secret of his hope to raise a lot of money as an inducement to keep the Goldwater forces in control. He simply would threaten to withhold campaign contributions from Republicans who oppose Goldwater's management of the GOP national committee.

Hawaii's Senator Hiram Fong, the only Chinese ever to sit in the U.S. Senate, has sounded out the State Department about making a good will trip to Red China. Fong believes that, if a trip could be arranged, the appearance of a Chinese-American senator would help counteract anti-American propaganda. . . . Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai was asked at a recent reception whether a reconciliation with the United States was possible. He replied, arrogantly, that the United States would have to abandon Formosa before the Chinese would make up.

Businessmen, Bankers Face Some Unfinished Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Along with the turkey leftovers American consumers, businessmen and bankers today are faced with another bit of unfinished business: What will higher interest rates do to them?

The answers so far offered range from very little at all—the government's official stand — to the threat of putting a halt to economic expansion, the warning of easy-money advocates.

Economic expansion is a cold sounding phrase that can be translated in terms of jobs, incomes, sales, profits, taxes, building — or in terms of the possibility of inflation and even the future likelihood of making a quick buck.

Many bankers had been plugging for higher interest rates and tighter money before the British forced American hands by hiking theirs drastically. The bankers cited fears of a runaway boom and inflation.

But the business expansion, now almost four years old, is struggling just now with a setback from auto strikes. So higher interest rates at this time wouldn't be welcomed by the advocates of a quick recovery and resumption of the climb to much higher ground.

The economy also is a bit skittish over the chance of trouble in the steel industry when labor negotiations open early next year. The worry is lest a generous wage boost might set off another wage-price spiral spelling inflation and the further loss of purchasing power by the dollar.

The Federal Reserve holds that raising interest rates on short-term borrowing this week is merely a response to the Bank of England's hiking its rate to 7 per cent from 5 per cent to protect the pound sterling in world money markets. The United States raised its rate to 4 per cent from 3½ to keep dollars from fleeing the country.

The American central banking system expressed confidence it can continue the policy of recent years: keeping rates on short-term money high without any boost in the rates on the long-term borrowings by business for expansion and by consumers for such things as new homes, autos and appliances.

The policy has worked because there was a continually growing supply of investment money for such long-term financing. The big supply kept borrowing charges moderately low. The question today is whether the further increase in short-term rates may affect the rates in the longer market.

Bankers argue along with the Fed that there are plenty of available funds to hold the line on the rates for mortgages and installment loans.

One uncertainty, however, is economic expansion. How fast it comes and how high it goes will affect the demand for long-term financing.

Bank economists say that moderately higher interest charges and a bit tighter credit supply is needed to nip any speculative boom. But they admit that when such a fever strikes, neither businessmen nor consumers seem to be deterred in their borrowing by higher costs. Bankers thus regard higher rates as more of a preventive than a cure.

Advocates of easy money will buy none of this. They say only the little businessman, the smaller borrower is frozen out when interest rates go up. Even such a moderate boost as this week's higher Federal Reserve discount rate is seen as spelling the end of the long-lived business upswing that started early in 1961.

The Mature Parent

This Hate Bears Danger

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The parents had entertained two of their college daughter's friends at dinner. At the meal's end, the mother rose from her chair, saying, "I'll clear the table, Fran, and the dishes. You take care of the dishes. You girls run along and get ready for your dates."

"Gracious, how wonderful!" remarked one of the daughter's friends. "You mean Fran really doesn't have to play family maid for a change?"

Her hostess, a friend of mine, stopped collecting dessert plates. "You don't know Fran and me well enough to say that," she said pleasantly. "We take turns clearing the table when she is home from school."

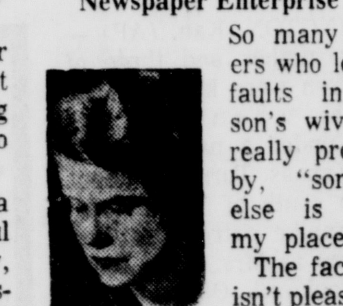

And turning to her daughter, added, "I will be grateful if you will make that clear to your friend."

Later to me, she said, "What is this 'Hate Parents' cult among so many young people? They come to your house, you ask them to turn down the volume of the record player — and the whole roomful of kids look at each other so that you can actually hear them think. 'There she goes again — the witch!'"

We the Women

Enjoy the Daughter-in-law

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

So many mothers who look for faults in their son's wives are really prompted by, "somebody else is taking my place."

The fact is, it isn't pleasant for a mother to see another woman become all important to her son.

When a woman refuses to admit the truth of that, she tries to fool herself by "discovering" flaws in her daughter-in-law — the way she dresses, uses make-up, takes care of the house or cooks.

It doesn't take long for her to convince herself that Jim married the one girl in the world who was wrong for him, that everything would have been just dandy if he had married the right girl.

Once she has convinced herself of that, a mother-in-law can

What's the matter with young people today? What scares me about this hate is that it's so automatic. As a person in your own right, you don't exist."

It is, of course, Dr. Freud who has made us conscious of the hate which can exist between parents and children.

I'm glad he did. The subject of unconscious hate between parents and children has been made the stuff of tragedy by great artists from Aeschylus to Shakespeare. It is tragic. So I'm glad that Dr. Freud has made this generation of young people aware of it.

The trouble is, they are not all going to receive the psychoanalytic treatment which would enable them to realize that it is slightly crazy to transfer their resentment of their parents to every other adult they meet.

We all need to become alert to the kind of displaced hate handed my friend by her neurotic young guest. We must learn to hand it back by saying to these disparaging youngsters, "Just a minute. You better get to know us before you start fighting us. You seem to have got us mixed up with somebody else."

Dr. Freud's discovery has been of great benefit, but in young people who lack the psychological education required to handle it, it has released a force of dangerous antagonism to all adult authority.

blame everything on the daughter-in-law. She can blame everything from the fact that her son is so absorbed in his new life that he seems neglectful of his parents, to his working too hard, to not getting ahead fast enough.

And that is how most dislike of a daughter-in-law gets started.

The woman who is more honest with herself faces the fact early that it may be a little hard to put her son's happiness into another woman's keeping, but that she has to make the best of it. And that the way to make the best of it is to look for her daughter-in-law's good qualities, and to try to be friends with her.

By this positive thinking she will gain not only that most cherished of relationships, a true friend, but a daughter.

Thanksgiving Parades Are TV Highlights

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus officially arrived in the nation's assorted towns Thursday, courtesy of CBS, and NBC's reports of various Thanksgiving Day parades.

For the next 28 days, television viewers may just as well reconcile themselves to commercials which are chock full of holly, evergreens, carolers in blizzards of cornflake snow merrily decking the halls with bough and of proud daddies in cotton batting beards admiring electric razors, cameras and after-shave lotion.

On Thanksgiving Day itself, most of the regularly scheduled programs were well prepared and the jolly hosts of the pre-taped game and panel shows greeted us with hearty good wishes, even though the members of the studio panel looked a bit bemused.

Highlights of the day were, as usual, the parades. NBC, as usual, focused its color cameras on the lavish New York celebration which was loaded with TV personalities, lots of bands and enormous gas-filled figures.

CBS popped around to show parades in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and elsewhere, and although the sights weren't as interesting for color set owners, it was another delightful show for youngsters.

An easy-going musical program consisting of some all-time favorite songs was NBC's holiday special. It was timed for that early evening hour when the turkey has been eaten in most homes, when conversation has thinned out and when most people are ready for a relaxing hour.

Dean Martin, Eydie Gorme, a pair of stylish singers, and Al Hirt, a great man with a trumpet, did some rather nice things with numbers like "Sentimental Journey" and "Night and Day."

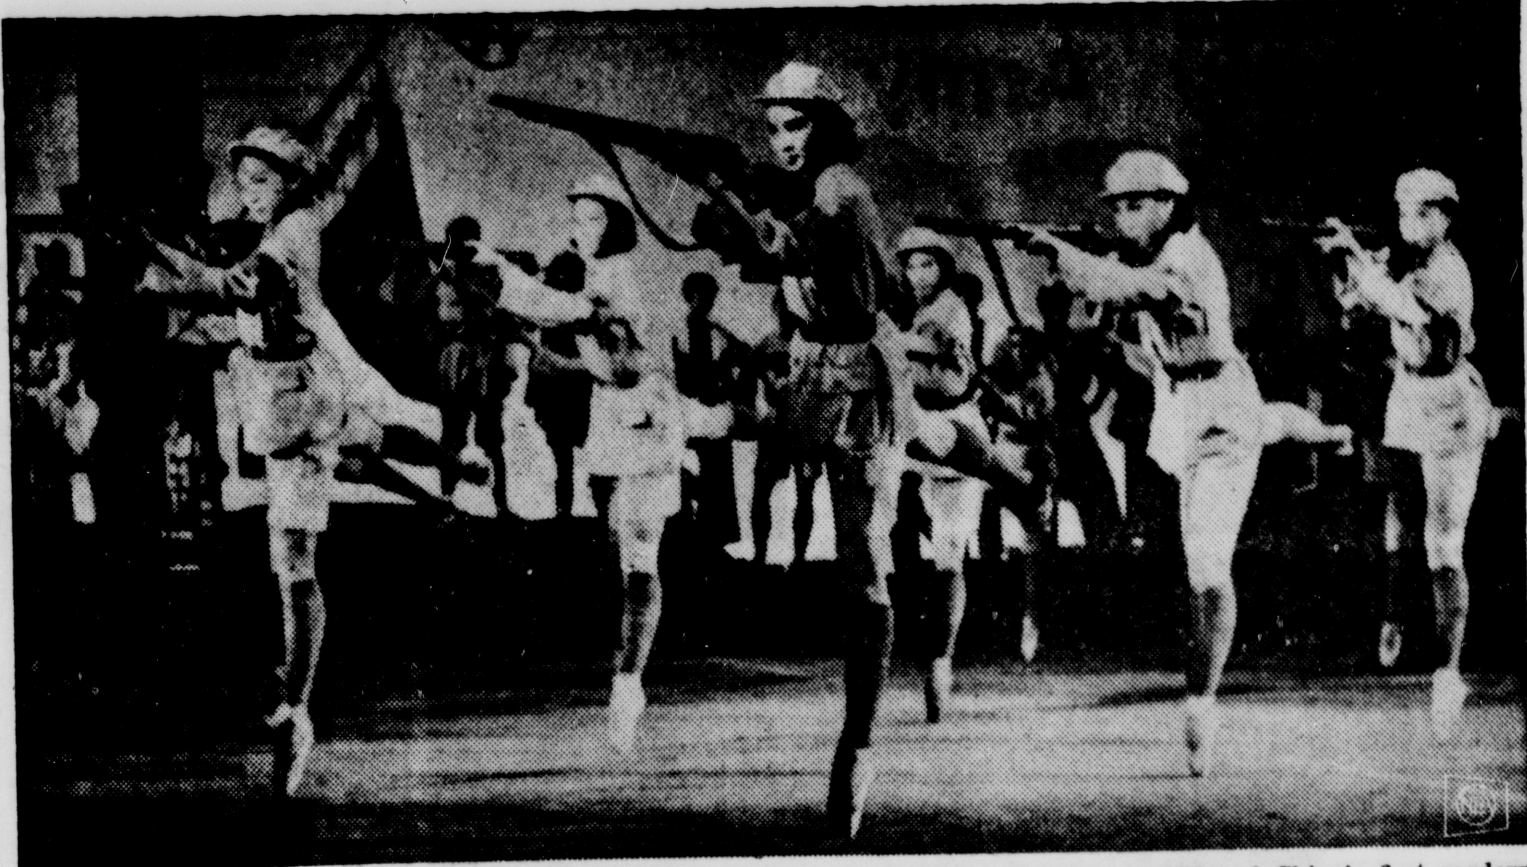

Grand Jury Probe Pledged By Judge

One of the witnesses expected to be called is outgoing prosecuting attorney Brunson Hollingsworth.

"The lack of a grand jury has been a severe handicap," he said.

Reds Have Bred Fear, However

Long for Unified Germany

EAST BERLIN (AP) — East Germany looks like a part of Germany, and not like a branch of the Soviet Union.

That is natural, because it is German, in an ethnic sense. It started life at the end of World War II as the Soviet occupation zone, but in 1949 the states of Brandenburg, Mecklenburg, Thuringia, Saxony and Saxony-Anhalt became politically the German Peoples Democratic Republic, or plain East Germany. This area of nearly 42,000 square miles and 16 million people became a part of the Communist bloc.

On a tour of many towns and cities, factories and farms, I didn't find a single German who wanted his country to become like the Soviet Union. They want it to remain German. There is an earnest longing for reunification with West Germany. But the long indoctrination they have had under the guiding hands of Russian Communists has bred a fear and uneasiness of much that has developed in West Germany, especially the growing armed strength.

If there is a drift, however, and I think there is, it is in the direction of the West, not the East. But the drift can take time.

Hans Walter Aust, editor of the East German magazine, "German Foreign Policy," expressed a view I heard from many others ranging from students to plant managers and farmers.

"East Germany never will accept the domination of the big industrialists in West Germany," he said. East Germans hope for reunification, he continued, but if it can't come on terms acceptable to them, then a long separation might be the result. He added it was quite possible for two German-speaking states to exist side by side.

East Germany had a bad start after the war. Its best coal beds were transferred to Poland and the separation from West Germany cut off the supply of iron ore, coal, markets and much industrial talent. Only lately is the new industrialization effort beginning to take hold. It is showing up in the form of more and better consumer goods, automobiles, agricultural implements and a better-dressed population.

The country has put into operation two new shipyards, at Wismar and Stralsund, on the Baltic, which are producing mostly small ships but some above 20,000 tons. Seventy-five per cent go to Russia. At Wismar I was told that new ships operated by Germans were hauling some of those disputed British buses to Cuba.

Even more important is the construction of new iron-smelting and oil-refining cities along the border with Poland. These projects owe their origin strictly to the Communist camp. With her borders drawn after the war so she had neither good coal nor access to Ruhr steel and iron ore, East Germany turned East for help.

A smelter has been built at Eisenhuettenstadt which now processes nearly 2 million tons of ore shipped from Russia. The coal comes from Poland. The town rose out of open spaces where before there was nothing but sand and scrub pine.

The digging by chance uncovered a mass grave of 4,000 Russian soldiers shot by the Nazis.

Now there is a monument in the middle of the city.

Eisenhuettenstadt is a planned city with five separate units, each complete in itself, with schools up to the level of senior high school, laundry and dry-cleaning facilities, shopping centers, and everybody living in apartment houses almost as uniform as beehives. There is not a single private house.

There is a lack of gardens, in sharp contrast to the little adjacent town of Furstenberg whose 9,000 inhabitants are virtually incorporated into Eisenhuettenstadt. In Furstenberg there are only private houses, since the town dates back scores of years. As we walked through the older town, we saw gardens at every doorstep. The shops were run privately with that air of personal attention which the big state shops in the new city seemed to lack. Even devout Communists told me their wives preferred to shop in the many privately owned stores which exist everywhere in East Germany.

Sigfried Woellner, Eisenhuettenstadt city councilman, who was showing me around, led me to the edge of the city where we could look across the Oder River to Poland. We stood for some time, both conscious that the land across there once was part of Germany.

But where are the Russians? You hardly ever see them although Allied intelligence says there are 20 divisions garrisoned in East Germany. My German guides and informants said they kept to their garrison areas, and rarely showed up in the cities. I saw barely a dozen, all told.

"Do Germans resent the continued presence of Russian soldiers?" I asked an engineer in Rostock.

"Why should they?" he replied sharply, but made no further comment. Few people wanted to talk about them, but a dinner companion one night said "everybody hates to have them here."

Despite all the talk, the big barrier to unification of Germany remains the uneasy relations between Russia and the West. As things stand now, there can hardly be any reunification of Germany without Russian consent. And for strategic and political reasons Russia is not likely to sit quietly while a new and powerful Germany is created again on her frontiers.

I could find only a few indications of Russian influence. East German history books for grade and high schools tell the story of Russian successes in the last war with such enthusiasm you would think the two peoples had been fighting on the same side. Moreover,

Russian is by order the first choice of foreign language studies. But English, left to voluntary choice, follows as a close second.

Unlike Russia where Western dancing is frowned upon, East Germans dance the twist and its variations without restraint while orchestras play jazz in every dining room.

Pay scales are high enough to give people a fair living but almost everybody seemed to feel things are better in West Germany. Pay ranges from 300 marks (officially $75) a month for charwomen to about 1,000 marks ($250) for highly skilled workmen. An acceptable suit costs anywhere from 200 marks ($50) to nearly 400 marks ($100). Bread is cheap, meat expensive.

Although nobody seems happy about the political situation, there is some reason to believe that things may continue to get a little better economically. One economist told me East Germany had started industrialization on too broad a scale. Instead of getting a few good plants going so they could help finance others, a great mass of industry was started all together and all of it was slowed down for lack of capital and skilled help. Some plants, he said, have been so long in building that they are obsolete before production begins. Russia made the same mistake.

Some progress has been made in producing automobiles. A noisy little economy model called Trabant is selling as fast as the cars can be produced. It has a two-cycle motor, sputters like a motor boat but rolls along the road at 60 miles an hour. There is a months-long waiting line.

A larger car, the Wartburg, smaller than any American economy model, also has a long waiting line at 15,000 marks (nearly $4,000). Only officials and party leaders can pay that. The country produced 84,290 cars in 1963.

For the time being, whatever political changes come seem likely to be taken calmly. I asked a political figure who would replace Walter Ulbricht, party and government leader.

"There will be an orderly transfer of power, at first to a committee," he said. He avoided naming any possible successor.

"Things are calm here now," he said. When I suggested they might be calm because people were afraid to express opinions, he replied:

"Most of the people able to voice and act out their protests left for the West long ago."

Students Win Wool Contest

Paula Walters and Donna Mittelhauser, Smith-Cotton seniors, won honors recently at the District Make-It-Yourself with Wool contest held at Sherwood High School, Garden City. Mrs. Mary Maddox, teacher of home economics, has announced.

Paula, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walters, 1700 South Ingram, won in Junior competition for having one of the top dresses. She received a wool skirt length, and is runner-up and alternate to the state contest to be held later this school year.

Donna, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Mittelhauser, Route 3, also had one of the top three dresses in the Junior contest and she won a box of sewing aids. "Donna's dress was made as a 4-H club project with her mother as her advisor," Mrs. Maddox said.

Both Paula and Donna are active in other S-C organizations, among them Spiz, Future Homemakers, Future Teachers, G. A. A., and Spiz Drill Team.

Paula is also a member of the National Honor Society.

Three other S-C students participating in the Junior contest were Judy Kreisler, Wilma Bidstrup and Karen Spence. Susan Glenn entered the Senior Division. Four of the garments were made in the clothing class taught by Mrs. Rosalie Smith.

Rhyme Heads List

All-Missouri Valley Team Voted by Associated Press

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jerry Rhyme, Tulsa's record-smashing quarterback, was the only unanimous choice and his favorite passing target, split end Howard Twilley missed it by only one vote on the 1964 All-Missouri Valley football team named Friday by the Associated Press.

Coach Chuck Studley of Cincinnati was a solid choice for Valley Coach of the Year over Tulsa's Glen Dobbs.

Runner-up Tulsa placed eight men on the first team, a 22-man selection of the league's top offensive and defensive players. Cincinnati's Valley champions placed six men on the first team and Louisville one.

Rhyme enjoyed the best offensive year of any back in NCAA major college history. He threw more scoring passes, gained more yards passing and more yards total offense than any back on record. His accuracy was so amazing he was consistently around 70 per cent and broke another mark for consecutive passes without interception. Rhyme's best day was 35 complete in 48 attempts for 488 yards and four touchdowns in a 61-14 romp over Oklahoma State. He set a flock of national one-game records that day. Rhyme was 20-for-27 with two touchdowns against unbeaten Arkansas.

Joining him in the offensive backfield were Brig Owens, the swift, clever Cincinnati back who is a fine passer and dangerous runner; Al Nelson of Cincy, the Valley rushing champion who owns 9.7 speed; and Tulsa's Bob Daugherty, an outstanding runner and the Valley's no. 2 pass receiver.

Twilley set national one-season records for passes caught and yards pass receiving. The other end was Wichita's Ray Patterson, also a split end.

The offensive line, averaging 233.4 pounds from tackle, included tackles Bob Breitsenstein, 250, of Tulsa, and Bob Taylor, 245, of Cincy; guards

Eddie Dukes, 232, of Tulsa and Chuck Siranni, 230, of Wichita, and Jerry Momper, 210, of Cincinnati.

The leading vote-getters on the defensive team were linebackers Jim Waskiewicz, 230, of Wichita and Doug Buffone, 221, of Louisville; tackle Cotton Moore, 225, North Texas, and backs Jeff Jordan of Tulsa and Carl Lockhart of North Texas.

Willie Townes, Tulsa's 6-foot-5 263-pound tackle, was the biggest man in the defensive line which averaged 220.4 for the five-man front. Other first team defensive linemen were ends Garry Porterfield of Tulsa and Herb Krumsick of Wichita and middle guard Roger Perdrix of Cincinnati. The other defensive backs were Bob Steinhauer of Cincy and Frank Regier of Wichita.

Townes was the only sophomore on the first team that included 16 seniors, and he was voted Sophomore Lineman of the year. The Sophomore Back of the Year was Corkey Boland, North Texas State's quarterback.

SPORTS

For Cardinals

Grid Becomes A Classroom

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer ST. LOUIS (AP)—The football field becomes a classroom for the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday. They'll be tested by their own coach along with the rugged Pittsburgh Steelers, and a failing grade would probably flunk the Cardinals out of contention in the National Football League's Eastern Division.

For the second straight game, "Professor" Lemm is going to grade his players on their individual performance — how they carry out their assignments, their techniques, effort, etc.

"A lot of teams do it, but last week against Philadelphia was the first time we've done it," Lemm said. "We thought maybe it would pick up the club, give them more incentive."

"The Cardinals looked sluggish in recent weeks, winning only one game and tying another in the four games prior to the Philadelphia contest, dropping them into second place, a game and a half behind the Cleveland Browns.

"One of the Chicago papers picked us to lose to Philadelphia, saying we've lost our incentive," Lemm said. But the Cardinals walloped the Eagles, 38-13.

"Whether the grading system had anything to do with it, I don't know," Lemm said, "but we advised the players before the game that we were going to grade them the rest of the season."

"The results were interesting, but they still don't make me favor grading. The players may start thinking more about that than the game."

From the marks most of the Cardinals got, it was apparent that they bothered a bit.

There were about 65 offensive and defensive plays for the Cardinals, so Lemm gave a maximum 1½ points for each play, making 100 a perfect score.

"Nine players — Pat Fisher, Larry Wilson, Larry Stallings, Dale Meinert, Ernie McMillan, Bobby Joe Conrad, John David Crow, Bill Thornton, and Irv Goode—scored more than 95," Lemm said. "And Fisher had 100. It's the first time I've ever seen anybody come out with 100."

The lowest score among the regulars was 82.

"Below 85 is getting pretty bad," Lemm said. "There were three below that score."

Lemm doesn't grade the quarterback because it's "too much judgment. We couldn't grade him down for throwing a bad pass. It may not have been his fault."

The most a player could lose was 1½ points, but that also was the most he could get on any one play. Thus Conrad got no more than that for his spectacular, one-handed catch on a long touchdown play.

The players get their "test papers" several days after the game.

The scores will have to match those against Philadelphia in the final three games if the Cardinals hope to make the dean's list—winning the Division title.

Silverberg Second

CHICAGO —P — Bill Silverberg of the University of Kansas finished second Thursday in the 10,000-meter run of the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

Dan Shaughnessy, 20-year-old Canadian running under Southern Illinois University's banner won the grind, finishing 120 yards ahead of Silverberg.

Shaughnessy, who had never attempted the distance before, was timed in 30:37.8. Silverberg's time was 31:01.

Silverberg was second also in last week's central collegiate cross country run.

The University of Tennessee won Thursday's meet with a score of 41. Oklahoma City was 5th with 106.

In individual placings, Dave Chisholm of Oklahoma finished sixth, George Scott, Oklahoma, seventh.

Deny Sneak Draft Rumor In Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League has branded as erroneous a newspaper report that the 5-year-old league held a "sneak draft" two weeks ago to get a jump on the senior National League in the brewing battle for the top college football players in the country.

The story, which appeared in Friday's New York Daily News — one day before the rival leagues conduct their separate drafts at different sites in New York — was immediately denied by league and club officials.

Milt Woodard, the AFL's assistant commissioner, flatly stated the story was "erroneous" while pointing out that "our constitution and by-laws don't allow this. We have set a date for the draft and if we sign anybody before that we would have to void this type of agreement. The story is not true."

The Daily News story, written by Norm Miller, said "there are strong indications that the American Football League clubs already have held another sneak draft in an effort to beat the NFL to the best available college players."

Miller's story said the premature draft was "believed to have been conducted by phone nearly two weeks ago. At least one leading collegian already has been signed by an AFL team."

The AFL held a premature draft three years ago, in violation of their agreement with the colleges to hold off until the final full Saturday of the collegiate schedule. Commissioner Joe Foss, who was not aware of the move instituted by club owners, ordered it voided.

The college season all but fades completely Saturday with two of the season's biggest games on the schedule. Army and Navy meet in their traditional rivalry while Notre Dame tries to wrap up the national championship by making Southern California its 10th consecutive victim.

Also on tap are Miami-Florida, Georgia Tech-Georgia, Tennessee-Vanderbilt, Duke-Tulane, Oklahoma-Oklahoma State, Rice-Baylor, Texas Christian-Southern Methodist and Arizona State-Arizona.

Cleveland Can Wrap Up Title

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer Cleveland can wrap up the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League Sunday but don't count on it. Both the Browns and runnerup St. Louis Cardinals figure to win their games and the race will continue at least until their Dec. 6 meeting at St. Louis.

Buffalo and San Diego, the two division leaders in the American Football League, have Sunday off because they played Thanksgiving Day in San Diego. They appear headed toward a title game Dec. 26 at Buffalo unless the Boston Pats catch the Bills.

When both Detroit and San Diego went down in the holiday games, the record dropped to 72-42-7 for the season (45-28-5 in the NFL, 27-14-2 in the AFL). Only nine games Sunday so let's take another shot:

Cleveland 31, Philadelphia 21. Browns still driving hard toward first conference championship since 1957. Jim Brown always has big day against Eagles but Frank Ryan will find Eagles pass defense tougher than 28-20 Sept. 27 victory.

St. Louis 24, Pittsburgh 21. Cards must win to stay alive, but have been in and outers lately. Steelers broke five-game losing streak last week with emphatic 44-17 win over Giants with help of New York fumbles. Washington 24, New York 17. Redskins get even for 13-10 defeat in September when Charley Taylor's fumble lost game. Sonny Jurgensen sharp and Giant deep defense hurting.

Green Bay 21, Dallas 17. Packers' running game meets match in Cowboys' rushing defense but

Defend Golf Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Canada's George Knudson and Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, playing so well they pleased even themselves, set out today to defend a thin lead against a par-breaking pack in the Mexican National Open Golf Tournament.

With 67s, Knudson and De Vicenzo were only two strokes ahead of three players knotted in second place with 69s — Don January and Gay Brewer, both of Dallas, and Jim Feree of Corona, Calif.

One stroke behind those three came Jackie Cupit of Corona, Calif.; Phil Rodgers of Perdido Bay, Fla.; Al Beslink of Philadelphia, and Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex.

Knudson and De Vicenzo led a wholesale assault on par with 18 golfers bettering 72 on the 7,216-yard course at the Mexico Golf Club.

Bart Starr's arm should swing the balance. Green Bay beat Dallas in Aug. 25 exhibition 35-3. Minnesota 24, Los Angeles 21. Vikings and Rams still have a chance at second place and runnerup bowl. Both tough on rushing defense but vulnerable to pass.

Baltimore 28, San Francisco 17. This isn't as easy as it looks. Colts just clinched last week and pressure is off.

AFL

Boston 27, Houston 21. Pats' blitz will bother George Blanda. Oilers' leaky defense too much handicap. Pats must win to stay close to Buffalo. Houston on eight-game losing binge.

Oakland 28, Denver 14. It may not be as easy as the 40-7 game Oct. 25 but Raiders are clicking under Cotton Davidson and Broncs have lost five of six.

Kansas City 24, New York 21. Chiefs still have long shot chance of catching San Diego.

Favor Sadair In Pimlico Run Saturday

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sadair will be favored to add the Pimlico Futurity to his juvenile record Saturday and become the top money-winning 2-year-old in racing history.

With only four starters, Sadair will be hard pressed not to advance to the top of the all-time earnings list.

Mrs. Mary B. Hecht's colt needs only $15,666 to surpass the record $402,969, set by Never Bend in 1962. Even with only four entries, the futurity will pay $17,063 to the third-place finisher.

Fourth place will be worth $8,531, or enough to show a profit over the $7,500 supplementary fee Mrs. Hecht deposited Monday to make Sadair eligible. The futurity purse of $177,635 is the largest ever posted in Maryland.

With seven victories in 11 starts this year, Sadair has earned $387,304, or $167 behind Bold Lad, who has been named top 2-year-old of 1964.

Royal Gunner, second in the Garden State, and Hall To All, another half-length back, will challenge Sadair again in the mile and a sixteenth futurity. The other starter will be Umbrella fella.

Alabama, Texas Spring Surprise

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer Alabama and Texas didn't wait for their Orange Bowl meeting to spring a surprise.

They unveiled a crucial play — the same one — in closing out their regular football season schedules with victories Thursday, Alabama trimming Auburn 21-14 and Texas whipping Texas A&M 26-7.

Following Alabama's 10th victory without a defeat, the Crimson Tide formally accepted an Orange Bowl bid everyone knew they already had received. Texas, 9-1, had accepted an invitation nearly two weeks ago.

In using the surprise play, second-ranked Alabama had help from Auburn's Mike Alford while Texas, No. 5 in the nation, received aid from Tom Murrah of Texas A&M. Both centers, Alford and Murrah, started the whole thing.

On fourth - down-and-punt situations, Alford and Murrah snapped the ball back over the punters' heads. In Alabama's case, it resulted in the first touchdown of the game. For Texas, the errant play brought a tie-breaking safety that opened the way for a 19-point second half.

Auburn's Jim Kilgore was set to punt in the first quarter when the ball sailed over his head. He chased it back into the end zone and fell on it, but the ball squirted away and Steve Bowman dropped on it for a touchdown.

In the third quarter of the traditional Texas battle, A&M's

Gunnison Arriving For Mineral Bowl

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — The Western Colorado State football team of Gunnison was expected to arrive today for its Saturday match in the 16th annual Mineral Water Bowl with North Dakota State.

Already on hand are the 43 members of the Bison squad from Fargo, N.D., who arrived Thursday.

Coach Darrell Mudra said North Dakota's squad was in fine shape after working out Tuesday on a frozen field in 10-degree weather at Fargo and again Thursday in Boys Town, Neb.

"We got a few bruises because of the hard ground, but I don't think it's anything serious," Mudra said.

Western State, with a 9-0 record, is champion of the Rocky Mountain Conference. The team is coached by O. K. Dalton.

North Dakota State, 9-1, shared the North Central Conference title with two other teams and is making its first bowl appearance in the school's history.

The Bisons have made a remarkable comeback. Two years ago their record was 0-10. Then Mudra became coach and brought with him six assistant coaches and some outstanding players. In 1963 the Bisons won three games and lost eight. This year their only loss was to North Dakota University, 13-20. Kick-off time Saturday is 2 p.m.

New Dish Dumped On Lions Table

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

That new dish the National Football League dumped on the Detroit Lions' Thanksgiving table was no turkey.

The Lions, who had spent their last 13 Thanksgiving afternoons entertaining the Green Bay Packers, ordered Bear Thursday and went hungry. Chicago's dethroned NFL champions won the annual holiday game 27-24 on Roger Leclerc's 17-yard field goal with less than two minutes to play.

The loss knocked Detroit out of second place in the Western Conference. Baltimore, which already has clinched the Western title, seeks its 11th straight victory Sunday at San Francisco and Cleveland, leading the Eastern Conference by 1½ games, plays host to Philadelphia.

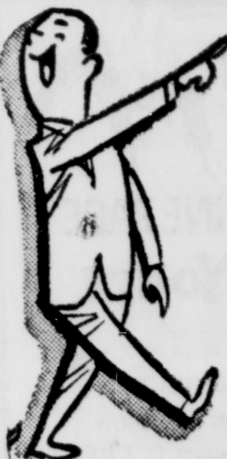

Green Bay is at Dallas, St. Louis at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Minnesota and New York at Washington in Sunday's other games.

The Bears-Lions meeting was their first on Thanksgiving Day since 1949. Detroit and Green Bay had filled the holiday bill after 1950 — when the New York Yankees visited the Motor City — and the Lions held a 9-3-1 series edge over the Packers. Green Bay, however, pulled out this year and a rotating schedule, led off by the Bears, was set up.

Rudy Bukich, Chicago's rifle-armed journeyman quarterback, gave the Bears a 21-17 halftime bulge Sunday with 12-for-13 pitching and three touchdown flips. After the Lions stifled in the second half and pulled even on Tom Watkins' third-period touchdown run, Benny McRae set up the winning points by intercepting Detroit's Milt Plum in the closing minutes.

War of 'S' Men

Navy Favored To Beat Army

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy is a one touchdown favorite to defeat an Army team still living a nightmare in the 65th service football game Saturday also billed as the third war of the "S" men — senior quarterbacks Roger Staubach and Rolie Stichweh.

Shorn of bowl possibilities, national ranking or even a club with a winning record, the contest more than ever is the beginning and end of the season for the participants.

Although the President will not be in the crowd of 100,000 at John F. Kennedy Stadium, Luci Staubach, from Cincinnati, has completed 107 of 183 passes for 1,021 yards. He also has Houdini-like qualities as a runner when his underpinnings are sound.

Stichweh, from Williston Park, N.Y., is a good passer and great runner who has accounted for 1,354 yards in all a school record.

Army stands 3-6, only the second time in the last 24 years it has faced its arch-rival with less than a winning record. Navy is 3-5-1 but is 2-0-1 against common foes, all of whom beat the Cadets.

Patriots Think Bills Are For Real

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Boston Patriots, trailing Buffalo's Bills by 1½ games in the American Football League's Eastern Division race, go into Sunday's game at Houston with the growing suspicion that these Bills are for real.

Buffalo, seemingly beaten with less than seven minutes to play in Thursday's game at San Diego, rallied for 13 points producing an important 27-24 victory. The Bills were down 24-14 when they started their comeback — moments after losing the ball on downs on the San Diego one.

Linebacker Mike Stratton, who played a vital role in the Bills' rally, burst into the San Diego end zone and spilled quarterback John Hadl on the first play after the Chargers safety made it 24-16.

Charley Warner then returned Hadl's free kick 40 yards to the San Diego 18 and five plays later Buffalo quarterback Daryle Lamonica went in for the touchdown bringing the Bills within two points.

Buffalo's attempted two-point conversion failed but the Bills got a second chance when the Chargers were penalized for holding. This time, Lamonica went in for the two-pointer, tying the score.

Stratton then picked off a Hadl pass — the Bills' fifth interception of the day — on the Buffalo 44. Four carries by Cookie Gilchrist helped move the ball into field-goal range and rookie kicker Pete Gogolak booted the 33-yard field goal that won it for the Bills.

Sunday's AFL schedule has Boston at Houston, Kansas City at New York and Oakland at Denver.

Sooner Drive For Second In Big Eight Race

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, driving for a second-place finish in the Big Eight Conference, go after their 19th straight football victory over traditional rival Oklahoma State here Saturday.

The Sooners, coming on strong after a shaky start, need a victory to clinch second place in the conference. If Oklahoma State should win, the Sooners will be Missouri for third.

Oklahoma State, which won its first three conference games and then dropped the next three, needs a win to finish above .500 for the first time since entering the league. OSU hasn't defeated Oklahoma since 1945.

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband told me last night that from now on he flatly refuses to look at any more home movies. He said the next time this thing is visited on him he is walking out of the house — no matter whose it is. Frankly, after last night I can't blame him.

We were invited to what we thought was a dinner party. When we arrived, the host was serving cocktails. Promptly at 7:30 p.m. (no food in sight—not even a cracker) the host hauled out the projection equipment. Twenty of us were literally trapped in the basement for three solid hours looking at home movies.

The movies were of their kids, their trips, parades and what have you. It went back to 1936 and even took in his career in the Army. The equipment went on the bum several times and the film tore. Some of the men got dead drunk, in self-defense. I was so hungry my head was breaking. My husband was practically frothing at the mouth.

How can people protect themselves against this sort of thing? Please advise. — PARALYZED EYEBALLS.

Dear Eyeballs: Some home movies are great entertainment — for those who are interested. A host and hostess who plan such an evening should inform the guests in advance. Guests who are NOT forewarned should use their heads and sit in the back of the room — near the door.

If you leave (quietly) phone the hostess the next day and say, "We don't care for home movies." I doubt that you'll be invited for a second showing.

Dear Ann Landers: I have not mentioned this to my folks yet because they both have pretty hot tempers and I don't know how they'll take it. I am a boy, 18, who has been going with a girl who is 16. This girl has been nagging me to get married but I am too young to take on the responsibilities of marriage and I have told her so a dozen times.

Last night we had another big argument over this and I was doing just fine until her father and brother got into the act. They said I no longer have a choice, on account of her condition (if you know what I mean).

Will you please tell me the score? — RATHER CONCERNED.

Dear Rather: I know PRECISELY what you mean. And this is a fine time to be asking the score.

No one can force you to marry the girl if you do not want to. In fact I am opposed to marriages under such conditions unless both parties want very much to be married.

Sharon Kinne Is Denied Release On a Bail Bond

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Sharon Kinne of Independence, Mo., Thursday lost her plea for release on bond in a slaying case.

A court ruled there was no ground to support the contention that Mrs. Kinne had acted in self defense in the fatal shooting of Francisco Paredes Ordóñez, 35, of Chicago, last Sept. 18.

To get bond approval the court would have had to agree to the self defense contention. While accused of homicide without extenuating circumstances, Mrs. Kinne is ineligible for release on bond.

Mrs. Kinne was free on bond in Kansas City, Mo., pending her fourth trial for murder in the death of her husband. She was to have appeared for trial in Kansas City Oct. 28, but became involved in the Mexico City shooting and has been in jail since.

A murder conviction in Kansas City was overturned on a legal technicality. A second trial ended in a mistrial and a jury was unable to agree at her third trial.

You are obliged to pay the girl's medical bills and support the child if she decides she wants to keep the child. You are, of course, financially responsible for the child until he is of legal age.

If your father will not (or cannot) help you meet this obligation you may have to quit school and go to work. This is a stunning price to pay for foolishness. (Are you listening, students?)

Confidential to IS HE OR ISN'T HE? And how would I know? Appearances can be deceiving. Some virile-looking men (the real muscle-building types) are—and some aesthetic (and even dainty) males are not.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Memories Have More Cheer To Some Than Banked Cash

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memories in the heart can do more to cheer your age than money in the bank.

You've had your fair share of living if you can remember when—

Your biggest goal in life was to ride down a hill on a bicycle with your feet on the handlebars.

Mothers cured children of thumbsucking in their sleep by tying an old stocking over their hand at bedtime.

In many neighborhoods you could see dogfights in the street several times a day.

During prohibition, if a man walked unsteadily, it was suspected he had the "jake leg" from drinking a bad batch of Jamaica ginger.

Children seemed to learn more in school, and didn't have to spend all evening doing homework.

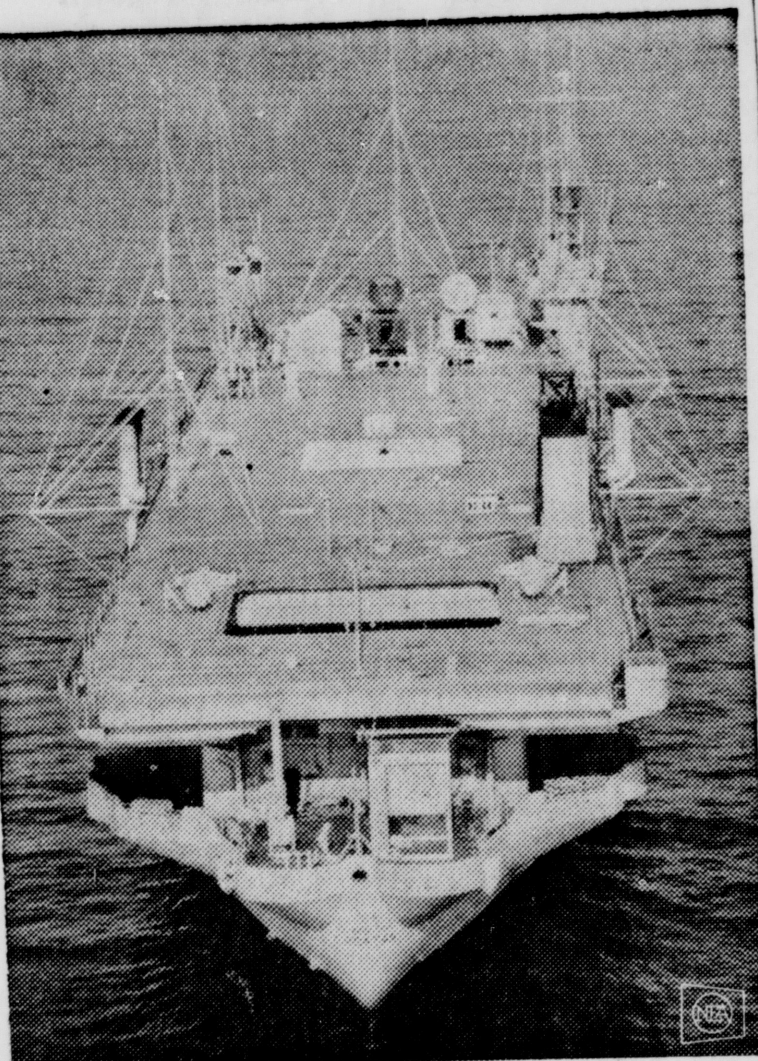

More grandmothers puffed on corn-cob pipes than smoked cigarettes.

Autumn's greatest delight for a boy was to go walnut hunting in the woods. Later, when you removed the rotting rinds, the stain remained on your fingers for weeks.

During World War I, the flu epidemic caused Uncle Sam more casualties than did the Kaiser.

Everybody bought things at retail. Nobody seemed to have a friend who could get it for him wholesale.

If was a family crisis if a girl with long hair went to the barbershop and got it bobbed.

LAUNCH PLATFORM—The U.S.N.S. Croatan may not become as famous as Cape Kennedy, but it will do some of the same things. The ship is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's seagoing launch platform for sounding rockets. During a three-month period in 1965, more than 40 sounding rockets with instrument payloads will be launched to measure upper atmosphere characteristics. This information will be compared with data gathered during the 1964-65 International Quiet Sun Year, a period of minimum solar activity.

RUSS POTTER

"Belgium of the Masters"

Belgium is the most densely populated country in Europe where the temperaments are never extreme. Talents and artistry are displayed as we visit the tapestry weavers, lace makers, flax workers, textile workers, diamond cutters and hard working farmers. Belgium's beauty and gaiety have been recorded by Russ Potter's cameras to bring a fresh New Belgium. It's steeped in the grandeur of the old masters and crackling with jet-age vitality. All of this, plus the smooth-flowing narration of a man who is known for his radio and television shows.

JACKSON WINTER

"This Is Egypt"

"This Is Egypt," produced and presented by Jackson Winter, is a brilliant addition to the showcase of travel films. We discover the land, the people, the river and those wondrous antiquities that have made Egypt what it is today—and, has always been—the land of romance—the land of mystery—the land of Pharaohs, Pyramids, Feluccas (small boats with sail which ply the Nile) and, the land of Cleopatra! We will see it through the eyes of the one man who undoubtedly knows Egypt better than any native — Jackson Winter.

"Hunza Land, a Shangri-La"

Nestled high in the Himalayas, Hunza has been isolated from the civilized world for over 2,000 years. Few people from the outside world have viewed this beautiful valley or its 30,000 healthy, happy and friendly people. Dangerous passes of 16,000 feet are crossed by mule, jeep and foot. Men and women over 100 years are active and mentally alert! Ordinary diseases are not known... no cancer or heart attacks. There are no jails, police, nor exist. This is Shangri-La!

LARRY LINNARD

"African Wildlife in Action"

"African Wildlife in Action" is a thrilling safari to the remote interior areas of East Africa. We will find the largest concentrations of wild animals in existence in Africa. We will travel to Uganda, Tanganyika and Kenya to see elephants, hippos, rhinos, lions, leopards, hyena, wildebeests, zebras, giraffes, impala and many varieties of gazelles, antelopes, greater kudu and other lesser known varieties. We will always remember the magnificent African animal kingdom and this heritage divorce or juvenile delinquency! Fear, hatred and crime do of a priceless treasure of posterity.

ROMAIN WILHELMSSEN

"South Amer. Adventure"

"South American Adventure" is a fascinating story of a thrilling trip through little-known regions of South America, filmed and personally narrated by Romain Wilhelmsen, nationally known as "The Legend Hunter." The trail begins on the Caribbean and leads us through Colombia with hundreds of miles of colorful jungles to conquer. Then on to Peru to find pre-Incan adobe cities. We will travel by paddle boat, wood-burning train, plane, and aboard a six-ton raft down the Amazon. Finally arriving in Brasilia, a most modern city.

RAYMOND MASSEY will narrate the Lou Hazam production of "The Capital—Chronicle of Freedom." One of the few truly great performers of the American Theatre, Massey found his story-telling role in the hour-long and in-color documentary quite different from his weekly appearances as Dr. Gillespie on the network's "Dr. Kildare," but he quickly accepted the challenge after reading the brilliant script of Hazam. The program will be telecast nationally on NBC-TV at 10:00-11:00 PM NYT Tuesday evening, January 12.

WHIPLASH

Whiplash probably is the most common type of injury arising from auto accidents—and most Americans have been involved in a motor mishap at one time or another.

Even a lightweight rear end bump could produce a whiplash injury to the neck. The effects of such a bump can be drastic even though the symptoms don't appear until weeks or months after the accident.

The unexpected bump may snap your head back and cause the vertebrae in your neck to lose their normal alignment. Such a displacement can damage nerves, blood vessels and muscles in the neck region. Eventually organs elsewhere in your body may be affected — the heart, liver, kidneys or stomach.

These symptoms, distant from the site of injury, can be explained by the fact that nerves supplying all the organs and tissues of the body originate in the brain and are channeled through the bony frame work of the spinal column. Consequently, when the spine is jolted by the sudden whiplash in the neck, a vertebrae may be forced out of place and damage nerves leading to any one of several organs.

Let's take the stomach as an example. Because of damaged nerve supply, the stomach in time will lose its digestive efficiency and ulcers may occur. The cause of the ulcers, however, remains in the neck . . . the vertebra that was jerked out of line.

The science of finding and restoring misaligned vertebrae is the science of Chiropractic. When the nerve interference is removed efficiently and painlessly by a Chiropractic adjustment, nerves will return to normal function and the stomach ulcers eventually will disappear —with the help of time and nature.

Liner, Tanker Collide

Heavy Fog Off Coast Is Blamed

NEW YORK (AP)—The Israeli luxury liner Shalom, bound for a Thanksgiving holiday cruise of the Caribbean with 1,076 persons aboard, sliced a tanker in two in heavy fog off New Jersey early today.

Coast Guard and hospital reports showed at least 13 dead and three missing, all crewmen of the Norwegian tanker, Stolt Dagali of Oslo.

A massive pre-dawn sea and air search rescued the tanker's other 27 crewmen.

The Shalom, her bow opened and shipping water, was reported to be in no danger of sinking. No one was hurt aboard the liner.

The radio operator of the tanker sent this word of the tragedy:

"Collided with liner in dense fog. Ship cut in two. Do not know what happened to after part. Ten persons on fore part. Thirty-three persons on after part. Need immediate assistance."

Day broke on a scene of hurried rescue activity some 30 miles from the entrance lane to New York Harbor.

The location is about 180 miles from the point near Nantucket where the transatlantic liners Andrea Doria and Stockholm collided July 25, 1956 in a similar thick fog, killing 51 persons and sinking the Andrea Doria.

The 33 crewmen were forced to abandon the sinking stern section of the tanker. The Grace Line cruise ship Santa Paula and a Navy helicopter rescued the 10 from the listing bow.

Surface ships picked some seamen from the water and Coast Guard and Navy helicopters lifted others in slings and shuttled them to New Jersey hospitals.

The first two seamen reached the Point Pleasant Beach, N.J., Hospital soon after dawn. One was pronounced dead within minutes.

About the same time, four more seamen were arriving via helicopter at the base hospital at the Lakehurst, N.J., Naval Air Station.

"They appeared to be in pretty good shape but they were suffering from exposure," said the officer in charge of the hospital.

Another Navy man there said, "Within minutes of their being checked they were up and smoking cigarettes, all except one who seemed a little incoherent."

The Shalom sailed shortly before midnight Wednesday from a Manhattan pier. Aboard were 616 passengers booked for a 10-day vacation in the West Indies and 460 personnel to serve and entertain them.

The Stolt Dagali was steaming northward along the Atlantic coast, from Philadelphia to Newark, N.J., her tanks laden with solvents and fats.

Commanding the 24,500-ton Shalom, the pride of the Israeli-owned Zim Lines and only seven months in service after her maiden voyage to New York, was Capt. Abner Freundenberg.

Capt. Christian Benidickson was master of the 12,723-ton tanker and commanded an all-Norwegian crew of 42. The ship was operated under charter to Parcel Tankers, Inc.

The vessels collided shortly after 2 a.m.

Lifeboats from the Shalom picked up five survivors from the tanker. The liner, her bow extensively damaged, turned back to New York.

Merchantmen in the vicinity and several Coast Guard vessels rescued others.

The sea and wind were calm and the fog began to dissipate before daylight.

Consider GOP Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Dean Burch says he is considering a conference of top GOP leaders to help unify the party.

But Burch said Wednesday that nothing will be done until the GOP National Committee meets in Chicago Jan. 21 and 22.

NEW YORK — A big gash in her bow, the Israeli luxury liner "Shalom" heads for New York harbor today after being in collision with the Norwegian freighter "Dagali." The Coast Guard reports that nearly half of the crew of the Norwegian ship lost their lives. (UPI Telephone)

More Hostages Reported Killed

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Belgian paratroopers landed and seized rebel stronghold Paulis in a swift daybreak strike today but not until white hostages were mowed down as savagely as at Stanleyville.

Unofficial reports said 50 of the 300 white hostages in Paulis were killed. One of the dead was an American.

The paratroopers landed in U.S. transport planes without the preliminary airdrop to secure the airfield, the technique used in the liberation of Stanleyville Tuesday. Four of the seven U.S. planes used in the operation were hit by ground-fire.

There was brief fighting in this last rebel stronghold in the northeast Congo and at least one Belgian paratrooper was killed and five wounded before the town was seized in about two hours.

The U.S. C130 transports began ferrying the rescued whites to Stanleyville and Leopoldville, the Congo capital.

One of the first refugees to be brought out said that he knew of 17 hostages who were herded into a Dominican mission and beaten to death.

Most of them were Belgians, according to the refugee, T.

Boeykens, a Belgian. But he said one was the Rev. Joseph Tucker, an Assembly of God missionary of Springfield, Mo.

Tucker's wife and three children were reported safe in Paulis and were scheduled to be evacuated.

The paratroopers landed at Paulis, then moved into town after meeting sharp rebel resistance around the airfield.

Intensive groundfire hit four of the seven U.S. Air Force C130 transport planes in the operation but all were reported to have landed safely. One paratrooper was killed and five injured.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman here said the Belgians had "secured" the town in about two hours. Rebel sniper fire was continuing, however.

The Belgians shepherded the first group of whites aboard a transport plane for evacuation to Leopoldville. The flight included 34 men, 1 woman and 19 children.

The embassy spokesman said 267 paratroopers were flown to Paulis, 244 miles north of Stanleyville.

American and Belgian military officers kept the other 350 Belgian paratroopers at Stanleyville airport.

Highlights In Multiple Death Toll

Eight Killed In Head-on Collision In South Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Multiple deaths in traffic accidents highlighted the early hours of the nation's Thanksgiving holiday period.

The number of deaths on the highway since the start of the count at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday included eight persons who were killed in a head-on collision of two cars near Olanta, in northeastern South Carolina. The dead were four adults and four children.

Three persons from Kansas lost their lives when their car collided with an eastbound Union Pacific freight train near Elm Creek, Neb.

The total of 54 traffic fatalities were reported from 21 states.

Stormy weather, with rain in sections of the East and Far West and snow in the Midwest, created hazardous driving conditions in many areas. The wet weather, along with cold in many parts of the Midwest, may reduce driving on the holiday.

The National Safety Council, which makes no estimates of traffic deaths for the Thanksgiving weekend similar to those for other major national holidays, says it is mainly a family holiday and little extra long-distance travel is involved.

An Associated Press survey of traffic fatalities for the 102-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Wednesday Nov. 11 to midnight Sunday Nov. 15 showed 468 traffic deaths.

Units Comb Red River For 2 Boys

NATCHITOCHE, La. (AP)—Search units combed the Red River today for two teen-age boys, missing after the home-made raft on which they and nine others were on smashed into a bridge piling and capsized.

"We heard one of them cry out," said Randy Ulmer, one of the survivors. "He said, 'I'm hurting.' We couldn't find him. 'He kept yelling, 'Help me. I'm hurting.'"

Missing and presumed drowned in the swirling Red River were Danny Tedford, 15, and Joe Warren, 13, both of Dallas, Tex.

Tedford and Warren were in a group of nine boys from a camp for underprivileged youths sponsored by the Dallas Salesman-ship Club at Hawkins, a Dallas suburb.

Two counselors, Gerald Bible of Cisco, Tex., and Ken Edgar of Tyler, Tex., were with the boys, who planned to float down the Red River to its conjunction with the Mississippi and on to New Orleans.

Emergency Meeting On Viet Rioting

Fear Boy's Death Might Touch Off Further Violence

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The National Security Council met in emergency session today to consider measures against fresh waves to antigovernment rioting that resulted in Saigon being placed under martial law.

It was the first meeting of the council since street demonstrations began Sunday, threatening to topple the fledgling civilian government.

Authorities feared the killing of a 15-year-old boy, first known victim of the rioting, would touch off new and wider demonstrations. More than 100 have been injured.

As the youth's body was put on display in Buddhist headquarters, a Western observer commented, "They have their martyr; now all hell could break loose."

Buddhist leaders met at the national pagoda and a spokesman said a demonstration probably would be staged Monday.

Under the nation's provisional constitution the council has broad powers, including authority to replace Premier Tran Van Huong. It is headed by the chief of state, Phan Kiac Suu, and includes Huong as well as former Premier Nguyen Khanh who is now military commander.

Premier Huong imposed martial law Wednesday night after rioting described as possibly the year's worst. Even after the law went into effect a crowd of youths clashed with police and a grenade blast injured seven policemen.

Coal Mining Prisoners Stage Riot

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — Coal-mining prisoners who warned their hostages "there's nobody going out over that dynamite," ended a rebellion early today at Brushy Mountain State Prison.

Three mine foremen held captive underground for 18 hours by the 134 prisoners were released unharmed.

The convicts won a hearing on their complaints about mail service and other grievances, a disciplinary committee to investigate rules infractions and a promise of no punishment for their sitdown.

"I'm tremendously happy that we were able to end this in a comparatively short time and without injury or mistreatment to anyone," said Harry Avery, state corrections commissioner.

Avery said the grievance hearings would start today at the prison in the Cumberland Mountains of Tennessee.

The rebellion began soon after the prisoners rode the cable cars three-fourths of a mile up the mountain Wednesday and went another three-fourths of a mile into the pits.

The Weather

Fair and much colder tonight with low temperatures 10 to 20. Friday increasing cloudiness and continued cold. High Friday in the 30s.

The temperature Thursday was 32 at 7 a.m., and 41 at noon. Low Wednesday night was 32.

The temperature one year ago today was, high 46, low 29; two years ago, high 55, low 39; three years ago, high 62, low 48.

Churches of All Faiths In Common Observance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A nation grateful for the blessings of peace and prosperity celebrated Thanksgiving Day today with prayers, parades, family reunions and turkey dinners.

It was a nation that could hardly forget the sober mood of last Thanksgiving, which came within a week of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

President Johnson said in a message to the armed forces, issued in Johnson City, Tex.:

"Today all Americans thank the blessings of the Lord for the bounty of their land. In homes at peace, in houses of worship that are untouched by rancor or anger, families are gathered in gratitude for all that God has given them and for the blessings that he has rained upon our nation."

He noted that many servicemen would not be with their families. "But all of us here at home remember you with gratitude," he said.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children, Caroline, who will be 7 Friday, and John, who was 4 Wednesday, spent the day with her brother-in-law, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Glen Cove, N.Y.

Across the nation families gathered for the holiday. Heavy rain in the East and blowing snow in the Plains disrupted transportation on the holiday eve.

Mary flights to John F. Kennedy Airport were diverted to other cities Wednesday night. The rains slowed bus and automobile traffic in the New York metropolitan area.

Churches held special services and in some communities Protestants and Catholics joined in a common observance of Thanksgiving, a practice begun last year in the new spirit of church unity.

The day was celebrated in Plymouth, Mass., which most Americans think of as the site of the first Thanksgiving, and in Virginia, which claims that Berkeley Hundred, near Jamestown, Va., held the original Thanksgiving.

Parades signaled today the approach of the next big holiday, Christmas. They were being held in New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Albuquerque, N.M.; Charlotte, N.C., and Detroit, among other cities.

Cities, churches, charity groups and individuals provided turkey dinners for the poor and homeless in many areas.

Arrives for Meet

Taylor To Stay At Present Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, arriving for top-level strategy decisions on the war in South Viet Nam, said today he has "enlisted in this war for the duration."

Taylor declared his readiness to continue serving in the key Saigon post in flatly denying that he has threatened or intends to resign if President Johnson does not accept Taylor's "plan" for new actions against the Communists in Southeast Asia.

Talking with newsmen at the airport, the ambassador — a four-star general and former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — denied that he was approaching this city "with fixed bayonets."

During the next five or six days, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other policy makers are expected to carry out with Taylor a complete review of basic strategy for the war against the Communists in South Viet Nam.

Officials expect that this will lead to new strategy decisions by President Johnson about the middle of next week.

Taylor was reported prepared to urge Johnson to consider seriously the bombing of Commu-

Stone US Embassy In Two Nations

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — About 80 African students today stoned the U.S. Embassy in Prague, Czechoslovakia to protest against U.S.-Belgian action in the Congo.

A spokesman for the embassy, reached from Vienna by telephone, said the windows of the first and second floor of the embassy building were smashed and 12 embassy cars were damaged.

About half of the African demonstrators, who carried placards and shouted slogans, entered the court of the embassy building and damaged all cars there. No embassy official was injured.

Similar demonstrations against the U.S. Embassy in Sofia, Bulgaria, broke out Wednesday and the government apologized.

The embassy spokesman in Prague said the demonstrators did not try to enter the building.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Hundreds of Africans demanding armed African intervention in the Congo "even if it meant starting a third world war" today stoned and burned cars outside the building housing the U.S. Embassy and other legations.

The demonstrators marched on the U.S. and Belgian embassies carrying placards reading "send Mau Mau to fight (Premier Moise) Tshombe" and expel all Americans and Belgians from Kenya." The Mau Maus were the antiwhite terrorists who operated in the days when Britain ruled Kenya.

U.S. Ambassador William Attwood and the Belgian Ambassador both received delegations.

The demonstration's organizer Sammy Maina, chairman of the ruling Kanu party's Nairobi branch, told newsmen they were demanding armed independent African intervention in the Congo, "even if it meant starting a third world war."

LBJ Family Gathering For Dinner

Urges Others To Join Forces For World Peace

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and his family will gather at dusk tonight to carve the traditional Thanksgiving turkey at their ranch home.

Daughters Lynda Bird, 20, and Luci Baines, 17, were flying in from Washington for the occasion. The girls hoped to get to an afternoon football game in Austin, 65 miles away, between Lynda's old school, the University of Texas, and Texas A&M.

The President did not plan to attend the game. But he agreed to delay dinner so the girls could enjoy it.

Relatives and friends were invited to join the Johnsons for roast turkey with dressing and giblet gravy, sweet potatoes, green beans, asparagus, molded cranberry salad, ambrosia, desert and cake.

The First Family made no advance plans to attend religious services during the day.

In proclaiming the holiday earlier this month, Johnson urged Americans to gather in their homes and places of worship to pray for peace and freedom throughout the world.

Wednesday night, in a special message broadcast via the syncom and Relay satellites to members of the Armed Forces, Johnson called on Americans to "thank the blessings of the Lord for the bounty of their land."

The President said "we are prosperous and mighty beyond the farthest imagining" of the Pilgrim fathers. And he said "for that we give thanks and pray that we may continue to deserve His blessings."

Before clearing his desk for the holiday, Johnson conferred at the ranch Wednesday night with Budget Director Kermit Gordon and chairman John Macy of the Civil Service Commission.

Area Citizens On Honorary Colonel List

Missouri's Governor-elect, Warren E. Hearnes, Wednesday, announced the names of 750 honorary colonels who will take part in inaugural ceremonies in Jefferson City, Jan. 11. Included in the list were the names of eight Sedalians, one from Smithton, and one appointment was made posthumously to the late Chris R. Roose, of Sedalia.

Heading the list are former President Harry S. Truman and Missouri's two Democratic United States Senators, Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long. Governor-elect Hearnes several days ago announced the naming of Delton L. Houchens of Clinton, chief of staff. Houchens is the Democratic state chairman, and was Hearnes' campaign manager during the primary election.

Others from Sedalia who received appointments and have accepted are James T. Denny, who was the Pettis County finance chairman for the county committee; Wilbert C. Askew, who was Hearnes' campaign manager during the primary campaign; John J. McGrath, of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co.; Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, Will-C. Hopkins, Dr. Ira M. White, Sam P. Harlan, attorney, D. Kelly Scruton and from Smithton, Earl Watkins.

The certificate for Chris R. Roose is to be presented to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Roose.

One colonel was named in Benton County, Raymond L. Carney of Lincoln.

The following were named in Johnson County: Edwin Houx, of the Peoples National Bank, who was treasurer of the Hearnes' campaign; Leland Culp, David Dixon, prosecuting attorney of Johnson County; Keith Jones, Spencer J. Elliott, Frank Anderson, James H. Houx, and Woodrow Austin all of Warrensburg; Les Simpson and Walter Howard of Holden, and Sid Davis of Knob Noster.

EDITORIALS

His Words Live On

Passage of time inevitably worked to soften the tremendous shock dealt the nation by the violent death of John F. Kennedy. History, which never stands still, moved on at an even more rapid pace in 1964, absorbing our interest and our energies.

But now it is the first anniversary of that tragic event and despite ourselves, we cannot help but relive the terrible hours of Nov. 22, 1963, in all their horror and heartbreak.

We remember where we were and what we were doing at the moment that we heard the unbelievable news that an assassin's bullet had struck down the nation's president and one of the world's most important leaders.

That is the only way most of us can relate to such immense and history-shaking events. It is the way we will tell the story to ourselves and our children for many anniversaries to come—where we were and what we were doing on that fateful day.

There is more, much more, than that, however. Time has also enabled us to place some perspective on this once vibrant man, John Kennedy, and what he stood for.

His death was, in a very real sense, a personal loss for every one of us, whatever our politics, whatever our agreements or disagreement with his policies and deeds may have been.

For a president belongs to all the people, and the sudden removal of one in full career pierces us to the depths of our being.

It causes us to think about things usually submerged beneath our private concerns: What kind of nation we have, what we want it to be, and what we as individual citizens, in our jobs and in our families, are morally obligated to do.

No, history has not stood still since November 1963. The present has become no less ominous, the future no less challenging—or promising. Other events of global significance have taken place since then, even in recent days. Americans have once again exercised their precious right to choose a president.

We, the people, divided ourselves into partisan camps in order to examine and debate the issues, to bring our government to its regular accounting, to express our wishes by the ballot.

Now we are united again to continue building a more perfect Union, a more perfect world.

In setting about this never-ending task, we are refreshed and inspired by the memory of John F. Kennedy, as coming generations will be.

"Let us begin," he said at his inauguration.

His words live.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Editor Wins Battle for Moderation

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The 650 Mississippians who signed a statement for law and order in bomb-ravaged McComb were largely inspired by the courageous crusading of one lone newspaper editor.

Oliver Emmerich of the McComb Enterprise Journal had been slugged in the nose by a white racist, had been subject to all sorts of threats, and last week had the plate glass window of his newspaper office punctured by a bullet.

Nevertheless, he kept hammering away editorially on the importance of law and order, and the importance of communications between Negroes and whites.

When I was in McComb last month, he kept asking me what the solution is. I quoted him Lyndon Johnson's famous saying, "Let us reason together"—advice which Lyndon attributes to Speaker Sam Rayburn, who always said, "It's better to talk than to fight."

Emmerich has now won out on this point. In the declaration of principle which the 650 McComb citizens signed this week, they went on record not only for law and order and "equal treatment regardless of race," but also for "re-establishing avenues of communication and understanding."

This may be difficult. Because such bitterness has developed on the part of white leaders toward the young freedom workers who invaded from the north, most Mississippians refuse to talk to them.

They will talk to the moderate Negro preachers or the moderate Negro businessmen, who in turn are called "Uncle Toms" by the freedom workers.

KKK Condemned

This was what caused state's attorney Joe Pygott, one of the more reasonable law enforcement officers, to remark: "Race relations in Mississippi are now worse than at any time since the Civil War."

However, excesses by white law enforcement officers have begun to convert the Uncle Toms.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mrs. W. L. Reed was elected president of the Pettis County Council of Parent-Teachers Associations at a short meeting following the Sedalia district conference. She replaces Mrs. M. E. Green who was selected as president of Sedalia district of the Missouri Congress PTA at Kirksville.

—1939—

Mrs. Joe Williams was elected president of the Women's Democratic club at a meeting in the Court House assembly room. Mrs. Walker Boulware was elected vice-president; Miss Alice Scott, secretary; Mrs. John Devine, treasurer; and Mrs. R. T. Phelan, parliamentarian.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Four Pettis county farms have changed ownership. Kahn Brothers, of the St. Louis Clothing Co., purchased the Carroll farm, one mile north of Sedalia on the Osage street road, and as part consideration sold to Mr. Carroll their 160 acre farm two miles from LaMonte. A. W. Long purchased the Thomas farm of 100 acres just east of Sedalia and as part consideration put in his 40 acre farm located about three miles southwest of Sedalia. Total consideration of the four farms approximate $50,000.

Four blood groups are recognized by the medical profession: O, A, B and AB.

In Africa, people range in size from four-foot pygmies to seven-foot giants.

In McComb, for instance, Rev. Sylvester Dickey, pastor of the Rose Hill Baptist Church, was one of the Negro leaders so critical of the freedom workers that early last summer he circulated a petition to get them to leave town.

But when I was in McComb last month, Rev. Dickey was letting the freedom workers use his church for a meeting.

Two things had happened to change his mind. First, the freedom workers had threatened to hold their meeting on his church lawn. But more important, four men in black hoods had kidnapped his son-in-law, Wilbert Lewis, taken him to a lonely spot, tied him to a tree, and whipped him with a cat-o-nine-tails for 45 minutes. They were trying to get him to talk about the freedom movement.

In the past, the Ku Klux Klan has had a lot to say about law enforcement in McComb and in many other parts of Mississippi. The head of the Klan, Emmett Thornhill, one of the wealthiest men in McComb, has his son serving as an auxiliary policeman, and Thornhill himself seems to have plenty of influence with the police and sheriff's offices.

When the nine white men who pleaded guilty or no defense to bombing churches and private homes were in the court room on trial, they joked and fraternized with the police. One high official of the sheriff's office even bought them Cokes.

Courageous Statement

It's also significant that Billy Wilson, one of the convicted white bombers, was a member of the auxiliary police and turned up at the home of Mrs. Alyene Quin immediately after the bombing. He had been able to go home, put on his uniform, and return to the scene of the crime, rifle in hand.

This was how the police force has been infiltrated with racists.

This is also why the statement of principle signed in McComb this week is so important. For it went on record against the Klan and the intermingling of the police and the Klan.

"To insure the confidence of the people in their officers," reads the statement of principle, "we insist that no man is entitled to serve as a public officer, elective or by appointment, who is a member of any organization declared to be subversive by the by the Justice Department and therefore is on the banned list of the armed services."

This may not seem a strong statement to northern readers. But in a town which has been troubled by some 20 bombings since the first of the year, it is a statement which took courage. And the editor who inspired it, plus the 650 Mississippians who signed it, deserve a great credit. It looks as if the moderates have begun to win out in Mississippi.

New California Senator

Gov. Pat Brown of California had a friendly talk with Senator-elect George Murphy, Republican, the actor who defeated liberal Democrat Pierre Salinger in one of the upsets of the recent election.

Murphy is a California spokesman for Dr. Fred Schwartz's Christian anti-Communist crusade, a national advisor for Young Americans for Freedom, and vice president of Technicolor, the outfit headed by Patrick J. Frawley, the big Goldwater backer.

However, Brown and Murphy did not discuss the right wing. They discussed California water problems. Murphy talked about water with such old-fashioned vigor that Gov. Brown finally asked him: "What's your authority on water?"

"I've been reading Sheridan Downey's book, 'They Shall Rule the Land,'" replied Murphy.

He referred to a book written by the late Sen. Downey, well known spokesman of the big landowners in California.

FINDING THE WAY

Why We Try and Try

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After thousands of years of trying to develop a responsible sense of freedom, why should anyone keep on trying? And yet the New Testament tells of a night of bad fishing, after which the luckless men were tired. They decided that they'd had enough. These were the men whom Jesus challenged to let down their nets once more, hope once more, and perhaps come back with another success. It's an apt story for these days.

The weariness of endless discussions, the patience required of diplomats who are called upon to sit down once more—all of this requires a sense of persistent patience.

It doesn't take much of a person to be tired. It does take a person of great faith to be persistently adventurous.

It doesn't take much of a country to be weary of protest and rebellion. It does take a great people to understand the driving urgency and to meet it with wisdom.

It doesn't take much of a person to be drained of faith. It does take a person of great resources of patience to continue belief when the going is rough.

The problems besetting society are not new; they appear before us because of the dramatic insistence of men to demand our attention. If anyone says, "But I've tried to do something about this problem and it didn't work," that isn't enough of an answer. Someone has to keep on working at the problem.

There are too many people who believe that the ideals of religious people are beautiful, interesting and impractical. They criticize the church by stating that the Christians are only concerned about their self-preservation and not in the wearying risks of a great moral adventure. Some of us would like to challenge them to see the whole truth, and understand some of the adventure that is going on locally.

Nonetheless, too many of us get tired—and quit. If we're too tired to go to church, who will bring a public witness in our neighborhood that anyone cares?

If we are too tired to pray, who will plumb the depths of spiritual resources in these crisis times?

If we're too weary to try to see a problem objectively, how can we understand the dammed-up frustrations that are now bursting out across our nation?

We're not the first to have been caught in such dilemmas. St. Paul called to the men who were thinking of giving up, "Don't be weary in well-doing. Don't lose the zest for life."

Those who have kept on trying are the ones who have kept the meaning of wisdom and understanding alive in the trying times.

Make Own Dust Mitts

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—I use my stove mitten as a pattern for making dusting mitts from cast-off clothing. One is tucked away in each room. If powder is spilled on the dressing table, it is so easy to put on the mitt and wipe the surface clean rather than running for a dust cloth. I especially like flannellette ones. —MRS. H. G. R.

DEAR POLLY—Mine is an idea for making cloth books for small children. Buy children's handkerchiefs that are decorated with nursery rhymes, animals and story book characters. Pick bright colors that children love. Sew the hankies together in book form and make a cloth cover of gingham. They can be stiffened with starch but daughter likes them unstarched so they are nice and soft. —MRS. W. M. M.

DEAR POLLY—Save those small clear plastic or glass bottles that come filled with pills or perfume. They make perfect containers for miniature bouquets of tiny flowers such as violets or pansies. I fill them with green-tinted water, add the small bouquet and then anchor a small paper doily for an individual place decoration at a ladies' luncheon. The effect is charming. —EMMA

GIRLS—I save glass vitamin and pill bottles to fill with spices and herbs that come in unattractive containers. A marked gummed label is applied to the side of each bottle. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—An old revolving piano stool makes a wonderful lazy Susan table for the porch or patio. Cut a round piece of wallboard the size you desire for the top, fasten this to the stool with two or three screws and paint it all a bright color. Remove upholstery or padding first from the top. They are very effective with painted legs and the top covered with plastic or oilcloth. —ANN

GIRLS—If the stool is a bit on the worn side, a circular, floor-length skirt made of a waterproof fabric would be smart looking and the table could still revolve. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—The enclosed Pointer was submitted by one of my first graders. If you should use it, the class will buy a new game with the Polly Dol-jump up and down on the chairs and sofas in reception rooms.

Disturb neighborhood peace by sitting in their autos and honking for the person they are picking up, instead of getting out of their cars and going to the door.

Block sidewalks and driveways when they go to a big party, so as to park as close as possible to the house they are going to.

Make a disgraceful shambles of restrooms, putting out cigarettes by throwing them on the floor and stepping on them, wiping lipstick-smears on fingers on walls, throwing paper towels at trash containers—in short, doing everything humanly possible to make the word "Ladies" on the door a misnomer.

Today In History

Today is Sunday, Nov. 22, the 327th day of 1964. There are 39 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, President John F. Kennedy was shot and killed by a sniper while riding in a motorcade in Dallas; Gov. John Connally of Texas was wounded; the same day Lee Harvey Oswald was arrested and accused of the killing.

On this date:

In 1774, the founder of the British Empire in India, Lord Robert Clive, died.

In 1890, President Charles de Gaulle of France was born.

In 1918, King Albert of the Belgians entered the liberated capital city of Brussels.

In 1941, Nazi armies captured the Russian city of Rostov.

In 1943, the Roosevelt-Chiang Kai-Shek conference opened in Cairo, Egypt.

Ten years ago — Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky died in New York following a heart attack.

Five years ago — The Cuban Federation of Workers withdrew from the anti-Communist Inter-American Regional Organization of Labor, calling it an agency of U.S. imperialism.

One year ago — Vice President Lyndon Johnson was sworn in as 36th president following the assassination of President Kennedy.

Electronic Computers Set Planting Dates

KANSAS CITY — James McQuigg, a Weather Bureau climatologist at Columbia, showed some other scientists how an electronic computer could be used to determine favorable dates for planting cotton. He said it could save south-east Missouri cotton growers a lot of money.

McQuigg outlined the method at Wednesday session of the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy.

He said data for an 11-year period — soil temperatures at planting depth and rainfall—was fed into a computer. On the basis of current data, the computer is asked: Is the soil dry enough for planting? Is the temperature at planting depth at least 68°? Will it get up to at least 68 each day for the next five days?

McQuigg said if half the acres planted in cotton in Missouri were managed on the basis of soil temperature information there would be an annual saving of at least $562,000 in replanting costs.

If not, the children had a good language and writing lesson. —MRS. N. H. TEACHER.

We use a man's stretch sock as a bag for marbles. We just tie a knot at the top and it works fine. With love from a—FIRST GRADER.

GIRLS—This first grader proves that ingenuity can start at an early age. I am sure this suggestion will save many a mother the task of making a marble bag. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—A little carpentry work is involved in my hint but anyone who can drive a nail straight can do it. There was a seldom used outside door in our old house. We boarded it over on the outside. The door frame on the inside was left and filled with knickknack shelves. The back was then painted to go with the other colors in the room. Unneeded windows can receive the same treatment. —MRS. A. S.

GIRLS—If such windows or doors do not show from the front of the house, they could be left, as is, on the outside. A thin backing of plywood could hide them on the inside. I have made such shelves wide enough for books. They extend beyond the facing but with rounded corners work nicely. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When knitting a bulky, cable stitch sweater make the short, double-pointed needle needed for twisting the stitches by sharpening both ends of a wooden popsicle stick in the pencil sharpener. Smooth the ends with sandpaper. This shorter needle does not get in the way while knitting and does not slip as much as a plastic one. This considerably speeds up my knitting on the popular bulky sweaters.—MRS. A. G. S.

GIRLS—This is fine if the stick is about the size of the needles being used for the rest of the sweater. If not, get a dowel approximately the same size and then proceed with Mrs. A.G.S.'s instructions.—POLLY

Children's Therapy Center Brightens Gloomy Outlooks

By HAZEL LANG

"I think you should screw in the bulb," said James, as he sat in his wheelchair at the Children's Therapy Center, watching, with the other children one day as J. D. Walker, director of the center, made several attempts at taking a picture, and failed.

Walker screwed in the bulb—and sure enough—that was what was wrong.

Everybody laughed, of course, and the children thought it was very funny.

But to James it was simply a suggestion because his mind is always alert, and he figured that was what was wrong.

There had been a time when James was afraid of a camera, afraid of the flashing bulbs, but that time has passed. Today he watches with interest and even likes being in the pictures which are frequently taken by Walker.

Those who have watched James the past few years he has been at the Center see many other changes in him, too. The little chin that had always been close to his chest is up now, and he looks straight at you instead of sideways.

This has been accomplished by Miss Lavern McNabb, physical therapist, who encouraged the young cerebral palsy boy to hold his head up.

It was part of the physical therapy program, said Miss McNabb, and it is such rewarding work. They are so much like other children, if they can cut you into doing things for them, they will, and they have to be corrected, just like other children.

James is able to walk now, too, with someone standing back of him holding him and he sometimes even gets to walk around in stores.

Roy, too, is in a wheel chair, and for awhile his attitude was indifferent. He didn't care about anything and was very depressed. But that has changed and now he is in pre-vocational training.

He is a very smart little boy and has learned to type on an electric typewriter. This improves the eye-hand coordination and maintains the finger strength. This is something he will be able to do to earn a living.

Both lower legs are in braces as is his back for support. He has received in physical therapy treatment of hot packs and stretching of the heel cords.

When he first went to the Center he wouldn't speak but now he talks freely and is very interested in satellites. He has a great interest in some motherless baby chicks which are being kept warm with an electric heating pad.

And Darlynn, seven years old, whom everybody who has visited the Center knows, for she has been there several years, and too, with her braces on has modeled little new fashions several times at style shows.

Darlynn has learned how to dress and undress herself, tie her own shoe laces and even put on her braces herself.

Mrs. Carson has been tutoring Darlynn on her printing, and how to stay within the lines. Cutting paper helps her, and they try to watch her attention span, and have her do neater work. She also has a visual problem.

All of these children are in the room taught by Mrs. Lula

Carson, along with many others and they have a lot of fun for they play and they sing as well as studying and reciting.

All of them need and receive special attention and Mrs. Carson has as her assistant, Mrs. Lalia Whitley.

In the pre-school room the youngsters sit around little round tables and they may all be doing different things, making clay patty-cakes and putting them into little muffin pans; working jig-saw puzzles, or even fishing. The fishing is done with little stick fishing poles with a string and hook. Fishermen would be delighted with such a catch as they made—three and four at a time—where the paper clips have caught together. The fish are of different colored paper.

There was a definite sob in the room, yet to someone not familiar with the children there we wondered whether there was something wrong physically where the breath did not come right or if it was a real sob from some little hurt inside.

The sobbing did not bring tears nor stop the fitting in of the pieces of the jig saw puzzle. The small boy continued determinedly to put the puzzle together—but the sobbing never ceased.

Then Mrs. Kenneth Cordry, teacher, led the little boy from the room, whether it was to comfort him and try to find out what was wrong or to take him to a therapist we did not know for the door closed behind them.

"He's been that way the last couple of days," said Mrs. Estelle Platter, Mrs. Cordry's assistant. "We can't seem to find out what is the matter."

Most of the pre-school young-

TEACHING WITH PICTURES—"O." Mrs. Lula Carson is saying to her class of youngsters in the schoolroom at the Children's Therapy Center, as she points to the word "rose" on the chart and teaches them how the "o" in that word should be pronounced. The children, all with different kinds of handicaps, listen intently for she seems to know how to hold the attention of them all. (Democrat-Capitol Photo) sters, however, were in a happy mood. They would go get whatever appealed to them most to play with—perhaps put away the game they were playing with and get another like the one some other child was playing with.

One small girl was stringing beads—a red one—then a blue one—big wooden beads, they were, and just matched the blue and the red that formed the plaid on the dark blue background of her dress.

Now and then one of the therapists would open the door of one of the school rooms and take out one of the children.

Roger Garlich, speech therapist, called out a little boy. Garlich has been doing a wonderful job with teaching the children who are deaf or have a speech problem. Many of these children come only for this, for they are in the public schools.

Now there is a new speech therapist, Miss Suzanne Slanker, fresh out of college, to help with this program.

The work being done at the Center is so tremendous that people have moved here and men at Whiteman have asked that their transfers be deferred two and three times that their children might continue to have benefits at the Center.

This is not a sad place, but a happy place, where children have found other children who, like themselves, are unable to do things normal children do. They have made friends and they have found they have things to share with each other. The teachers and therapists are happy, too, because they can see definite progress, slow as it might be, they can see it.

Miss Janet Vavra, occupational therapist, now has her interest divided. She not only works at the Center teaching little girls like Tina and Darlynn and little boys like James and Roy such things as eye-hand coordination and how to use many of the things in her room from turning keys in locks to using keys on the typewriter, but she has something she wanted very much, a sheltered workshop.

The Sheltered Workshop is at the northeast corner of Third and Summit. Here eight young people work at various jobs and here, too, is happiness for they are all alike. They could not have found jobs in a competitive business. Here they are taught to work together and someday may be able to go into certain kinds of jobs.

One of the things they do is stuff envelopes and staple advertising papers. There have been numerous things that needed tying and they couldn't seem to tie them tight enough.

When someone talked before the Ladies Garment Workers Union recently about the Sheltered Workshop, this organization was interested and immediately set about to do something. Their gift to the Workshop was an electric tying machine.

Around the table sat the group busily at work making colorful little nylon net pompons to be given by the Adco Co., to their customers. There were large containers of shampoo and both filled and empty plastic bottles. This is what is termed a nuisance job John Van Dyne found for the Workshop and he has been keeping them busy. They have occasional jobs with other businesses but Adco's jobs are always there, and Walker expressed gratitude to Van Dyne who heads one of Sedalia's largest and oldest industries.

They fill 400 cases of shampoo a month and at first they didn't know how to get the shampoo in the bottles but they found a way—they brought in the pop dispensers used in the Children's Therapy stand at the Missouri State Fair, and it worked fine.

Only a block away is the Training Center for Retarded Children and some of these are about to reach the age limit. When they do, they, too, will be employed at the Workshop.

These young people are actually earning money for they are paid according to what they produce, and the money they earn means so very much to them. Payday is always a big day.

Today bonds are being sold all over town for the Children's Therapy Center, bonds that will help youngsters to talk and walk and to do many things they would never do otherwise, that will help young people earn money who could not ever without the Sheltered Workshop. Today is a day of opportunity—opportunity to help to keep this wonderful program going—your opportunity to buy a bond and give a handicapped child a chance.

THIS IS THE BUSY Sheltered Workshop, located at Fifth and Summit, where young people who could not enter competitive jobs are taught how to work so that someday perhaps they can, for they are trained in working with others. They are filling plastic bottles with shampoo and putting them in boxes for the Adco Co. The job was a good one and steady but how do you go about getting shampoo in plastic bottles out of big tin cans? That problem was solved with soft drink dispensers and they have their own assembly line.

Gets Last Laugh On GOP Surgeon

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Politically speaking, Mrs. Tom Gehr and Dr. Morton Tompkins are friendly enemies. She is an ardent Democrat; he, an equally ardent Republican. Both worked hard in the recent campaign. But Mrs. Gehr had the last word. When Dr. Tompkins removed the sheet to operate on Mrs. Gehr Wednesday, he found neatly taped on her abdomen: A map of the United States on which was written, "All the way with LBJ."

A Large Chunk Of Welfare Goes For Medical Aid

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Missouri welfare division has paid more than $13 million to Missouri hospitals in the past five years for the care of needy patients, Proctor N. Carter, welfare director, said today. In an address prepared for the final sessions of the Missouri Hospital Association, Carter said the payments were made to 146 hospitals on behalf of 85,510 patients—an average of $200 per patient. State funds have been matched by federal grants in the program started in 1959 and "broadened by each succeeding legislature," said Carter. In the first biennium, 1959-61, an average of $108 was spent on 22,699 patients, he said. In the 1961-63 biennium, the average was $165 for 36,241 patients. Total funds have risen from $2,465,488 in the first biennium to about $9.5 million in the 1963-65 period, for which the average will be about $200 a patient, Carter said.

People In The News

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. had a small party Wednesday to celebrate his fourth birthday.

His sister, Caroline, who will be 7 Friday, was junior hostess for the guests at the New York City apartment of their mother, Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite their recent court fight over custody of their children, Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and her former husband, Dr. James S. Murphy, are listed in the 1965 edition of the New York Social Register.

The register in the past had not been enthusiastic about numerous persons involved in highly publicized divorces. The new edition appeared Wednesday.

But Rockefeller, governor of New York, and his wife, Margaretta; her ex-husband and his second wife, the former Victoria Thompson, continue to be listed.

A new name in the register is Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who recently moved to New York with her children. The president's widow previously was listed in the Washington register.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Melissa Murphy, 22, daughter of Republican Sen.-elect George Murphy of California, will be married Saturday to Robert William Ellis III at Aspen, Colo.

Miss Murphy's family announced Wednesday in Los Angeles that the wedding will be attended only by members of the immediate families.

Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Ellis of Syracuse, N.Y., and his bride to be are students at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., wants to modernize congressional procedures and use computers to speed consideration of budgetary and appropriations measures.

"We who are the controllers of the world's biggest business are literally using a high, slant-top desk, an old-fashioned revolving stool, a big thick ledger and a quill pen," Monroney said at a news conference Wednesday.

He said he would introduce a resolution when Congress meets in January to establish a 10-member special committee of three Democrats and two Republicans from each chamber to take testimony and recommend proposed rules changes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest cut in long distance telephone rates in history will go into effect early next year throughout the nation.

The Federal Communications Commission announced the reductions Wednesday and said the Bell System telephone companies would put about 75 percent of the changes into effect Feb. 1 and the rest by April 1.

Under the new rates, a $1 calling will be in effect for the first three minutes on station-to-station calls anywhere in the nation after 8 p.m. and all day Sunday. The $1 maximum had been established earlier between 9 p.m. and 4:30 a.m.

There will also be lower bargain rates between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. daily and all day Saturday. The FCC said the cuts were made possible "by the high level of business activity and increasing efficiencies in telephone operations."

Williams told reporters he is prepared to substantiate charges he has relayed to the Senate through Sen. John J. Williams, R-De. These charges link Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, and Matthew McCloskey, long a party fund raiser, in the alleged payoff deal.

Williams told the Senate last summer he was informed that an extra $35,000 had been added to the more than $4 million cost of the stadium for which McCloskey, a Philadelphia contractor, held the construction contract. Williams said $25,000 of this money wound up in the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund.

Police Reports
A coat valued at $37 was reported lost or stolen to police Tuesday. The gray car coat has been missing since Nov. 19, according to Roy Riggs, 2406 Albert Lee, the owner.

A blue purse containing $22 and important papers was lost in the downtown area Tuesday. Irma Dunlap, 305 West Fourth, reported the loss to police Tuesday evening.

Accidents
A seat belt was credited with possibly saving an 18-year-old youth from severe injury about 9 p.m. Wednesday, when his car struck the Flat Creek bridge on South Highway 65. The youth gave his name as Charles Daehler, Lexington, Mo.

Daehler said he was going north enroute to his home from Ft. Leonard Wood where he is stationed with the combat engineers to spend Thanksgiving with relatives. He said his car went slightly off the right side of the highway and before he realized it he was upon the bridge.

The car ripped away a bridge warning standard and ripped loose approximately 66 feet of iron railing on the east side, starting at the southeast corner of the bridge. He said an approaching car blinded him and he failed to see the bridge until too late.

The automobile, a 1964 Biscayne Chevrolet sedan, was extensively damaged. The car was towed to Sedalia by Bacon's wrecker.

Betty Rapenske filed a petition for divorce against John M. Rapenske in Circuit Court Wednesday. J. R. Fritz is her attorney.

Shirley Rudd filed a petition in Circuit Court Wednesday seeking a divorce from William Rudd. Robert L. Wesner is her attorney.

Donna L. Ritzo, a minor acting through her grandmother and next friend, Zida Scott, filed a petition in Circuit Court Wednesday seeking a divorce from Joseph L. Ritzo. William F. Brown is her attorney.

Fires In City
The Sedalia Fire Department extinguished two grass fires Wednesday before they could do any damage. The first alarm was at 1:17 p.m. Wednesday to 2401 West Second Street and the second alarm was at 2 p.m. to 1503 South Brown. Burning trash was the cause of both blazes.

New Round For Bobby Baker Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don B. Reynolds visited the Senate Rules Committee's headquarters on Capitol Hill, accepted its subpoena to appear as a witness in a new round of Bobby Baker hearings and punched a news photographer for trying to take his picture.

While doing all this Wednesday Reynolds hotly denied that he had sought to avoid testifying in the investigation.

The husky insurance man said he was eager to get on the witness stand to tell his story of an alleged diversion to the 1960 Kennedy - Johnson campaign fund of $25,000 appropriated for construction of the Washington, D.C. stadium.

The hearings are scheduled to start Tuesday.

Hugh Alexander, committee counsel, told newsmen, "Reynolds normally would be one of the first witnesses because he is the accuser."

Reynolds told reporters he is prepared to substantiate charges he has relayed to the Senate through Sen. John J. Williams, R-De. These charges link Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, and Matthew McCloskey, long a party fund raiser, in the alleged payoff deal.

Williams told the Senate last summer he was informed that an extra $35,000 had been added to the more than $4 million cost of the stadium for which McCloskey, a Philadelphia contractor, held the construction contract. Williams said $25,000 of this money wound up in the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund.

Pro Cannot Do Fastest Dance Craze
By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It may come as a surprise to many and a comfort to some, but Juliet Prowse can not do the Frug.

The Frug, for the benefit of travelers just back from four years in Tibet, is a dance craze, lineal descendant of the Twist. Along with entertainment spots called "discotheques," where the customers amuse themselves by dancing to recorded music, the Frug and related dances have soared to heights of popularity equaled by another generation's interest in speak-easies and the Charleston.

"It is a very strange thing," said Miss Prowse, who has risen to fame and fortune by virtue of her exciting, fancy footwork. "I can do the Mashed Potato and the Watusi, but the Frug — no."

"It would worry me except that I've heard other dancers say the same thing. I guess the Frug is for nondancers," she said.

Miss Prowse, who is tall, beautiful and has proved she can speak — with a slight British accent, endowment of her British South African birth and study in England — and sing, suffers, she says, from the same old problem of Hollywood type-casting.

"They say, 'Oh, she's just a dancer' when I'm up for a part," she complained. "That's why I'm excited about a television pilot — for a comedy series — I've just made. I play a movie star who is married to an Air Force man and we live in a quonset hut. I don't do any dancing at all."

Meanwhile, Juliet's dancing career keeps her busy with night club appearances, television guest shots and motion picture roles. She is visible on television doing one of those Kooky Cameo roles in ABC's "Burke's Law," and again Friday in a special variety show, "NBC Follies of 1965," with Steve Lawrence.

Area Postmasters Hold Conference Here
A pre-Christmas conference for the Postmasters of the Sedalia Sectional Center Facility, was held at the Bothwell Hotel, Tuesday night, attended by 34 postmasters whose offices are in this sectional center.

They are postoffices which have overnight exchange, and purpose of the meeting was to discuss handling and exchange problems on Christmas mail.

Postal Service Officers John R. Robinette, Springfield, Mo., was the speaker and instructor, who spoke and explained the instructions.

Postmaster Maurice Hogan of the Sedalia postoffice, acted as chairman of the meeting.

pital for treatment. Dr. John Lamy rendered medical attention.

Mehan's 14-year-old brother John escaped injury.

The car, a 1962 Pontiac sedan, received about $200 damages.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband told me last night that from now on he flatly refuses to look at any more home movies. He said the next time this thing is visited on him he is walking out of the house — no matter whose it is. Frankly, after last night I can't blame him.

We were invited to what we thought was a dinner party. When we arrived, the host was serving cocktails. Promptly at 7:30 p.m. (no food in sight—not even a cracker) the host hauled out the projection equipment.

Twenty of us were literally trapped in the basement for three solid hours looking at home movies.

The movies were of their kids, their trips, parades and what have you. It went back to 1936 and even took in his career in the Army. The equipment went on the bum several times and the film tore. Some of the men got dead drunk, in self-defense. I was so hungry my head was practically frothing at the mouth.

How can people protect themselves against this sort of thing? Please advise. — PARALYZED EYEBALLS.

Dear Eyeballs: Some home movies are great entertainment—for those who are interested. A host and hostess who plan such an evening should inform the guests in advance. Guests who are NOT forewarned should use their heads and sit in the back of the room — near the door.

If you leave (quietly) phone the hostess the next day and say, "We don't care for home movies." I doubt that you'll be invited for a second showing.

Dear Ann Landers: I have not mentioned this to my folks yet because they both have pretty

Zimmer Bound Over For Trial
TOPEKA (AP) — A 44-year-old railroad engineer from Kansas City, Kan., was bound over to District Court Wednesday on charges of kidnaping and slaying 7-year-old Gladys Johnson.

Judge William Carpenter of the Court of Topeka denied bond for William Zimmer and overruled motions to discharge the defendant. Date for arraignment will be set later.

Zimmer, who is white, is charged with kidnaping the Negro girl from a Topeka street Nov. 14 and later killing her. The body was found by hunters a week later in a field near St. Marys, Kan.

Gladys and a younger brother and sister had been waiting in front of the home of a baby sitter when she disappeared.

At Wednesday's hearing the brother, 6-year-old Elmer Johnson, pointed out Zimmer in the courtroom as the man who took his sister. The boy sat on the lap of his mother, Mrs. Betty Michaels, as he was questioned by Bob Hecht, assistant Shawnee County attorney, and defense counsel.

Eight items, including a blood-stained hatchet, were introduced as evidence. They had been examined by the FBI laboratory.

A study of work by law enforcement officials in the case was asked Wednesday by Darold Main, chairman of the Shawnee County Commission. He wrote Mayor Hal Gerlach and city commissioners asking for a 5-man "fact-finding committee" to probe the case.

Main said a number of questions have arisen, including communications between the city police department and county sheriffs agencies and relationship of the city's office, cooperation between the agencies and relationship of both agencies with the public.

Main said he had heard some newsmen felt some information was unnecessarily suppressed and that true facts were not brought out. He said the proposed study should determine what procedural and administrative errors may have occurred, and to determine what corrective steps can and should be taken.

Woman Reported Leading Guerrillas
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A woman known as La Capitana — The Captain — is reported leading an anti-Castro guerrilla band of 40 men in central Cuba.

"In the last effort to capture her, 600 soldiers were put into action, but she eluded them," said Jose Rodriguez, 19, a newly arrived refugee.

hot tempers and I don't know how they'll take it. I am a boy, 18, who has been going with a girl who is 16. This girl has been nagging me to get married but I am too young to take on the responsibilities of marriage and I have told her so a dozen times.

Last night we had another big argument over this and I was doing just fine until my father and brother got into the act. They said I no longer have a choice, on account of her condition (if you know what I mean).

Will you please tell me the score? — RATHER CONCERNED.

Dear Rather: I know PRECISELY what you mean. And this is a fine time to be asking the score.

No one can force you to marry the girl if you do not want to. In fact I am opposed to marriages under such conditions unless both parties want very much to be married.

You are obliged to pay the girl's medical bills and support the child if she decides she wants to keep the child. You are, of course, financially responsible for the child until he is of legal age.

If your father will not (or cannot) help you meet this obligation you may have to quit school and go to work. This is a stinging price to pay for foolishness. (Are you listening, students?)

Confidential to IS HE OR ISN'T HE? And how would I know? Appearances can be deceiving. Some virile-looking men (the real muscle-building types) are—and some aesthetic (and even dainty) males are not.
